Propose One-Day Lull for Truce Talks

No Board Petitions Are Filed, Deadline Nears

With the deadline for filing nominating petitions by candidates for membership on the Kingston (Consolidated) Board of Education set for Wednesday, April 12 at 5 p. m., the office of the clerk of the board said Friday no petitions had been filed.

Two vacancies are to be filled at the May 2 election. Milton L. Reynolds, who is completing a one-year term in office, previously announced that he will seek a five-year term on the board. Sam S. Pepper said he will not be a candidate for reelection. He is rounding out a four-year unexpired term of the late Robert (Bob) Browning who died in February, 1963.

Photographer Mentioned
Although no official announcement has as yet been made, the Freeman learned that friends and supporters of Thomas W. Reynolds, of 38 Fairmont Avenue, Kingston, a widely-known photographer with offices on Fair Street, say he will be a candidate for a five-year term as a board member.

Bernie Singer, operator of an establishment which bears his name, and a former member of the school board, said that although many residents of the district have urged him to be a candidate, he has decided not to run for the office.

Thomas Reynolds had no comment when asked about reports, but from other sources it was learned that an official announcement on his decision might be expected early next week. Reynolds has been a successful businessman in Kingston and Kingston many years. He has been active in numerous civic affairs and other activities of public interest.

Reynolds was president of Saugerties Chamber of Commerce 1955-1957. He is a member of the advisory board of the Salvation Army, and has been chairman of financial campaigns for the Cancer Society and the Red Cross. A native of Poughkeepsie, he graduated from Kingston High School and Rutgers University where he received his B.A. degree. He has held office in the Central Businessmen's Association and as president of the Hudson Valley Photographers Association. He is a member of the Official Board of St. James Methodist Church.

Require 100 Names
In compliance with the Education Law, candidates for membership on the Board of Education must submit petitions signed by at least 100 persons who are qualified to vote at the school election in May.

The Clerk of the Board of Education is required by law to refuse to accept petitions signed by an insufficient number of qualified voters, or petitions which are not timely. The office of the clerk of the Board is in the office of the Superintendent of Schools, 67 Wall Street.

After the filing of nominating petitions, the clerk of the Board will have official ballots printed containing the names of all the candidates who are properly nominated by petition. The names will be arranged alphabetically on ballots according to their surnames. Blank spaces will be provided so that voters may ballot for candidates who have not been nominated for board membership.

Registration of voters will take place on Friday, April 14 at the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway from 10 a. m. until 7 p. m.

Registration
Residents of the district who must register to qualify to vote are those who did not register for the preceding general election; who did register for the preceding general election, but at the time resided in a school election district other than the one in which they now reside; residents who have recently turned 21, and those who have moved into the Kingston Con-

Lions Hit New One Night High; 4,068 View Show

The Lions Club 20th Annual Exposition and Home Show set an all-time single night attendance high Friday night at 4,068 persons visited the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue to view the multitude of exhibits.

Despite the wet spring weather interest in the exposition remained high. The total for the first four days, Tuesday through last night is now 12,370.

The show closes tonight with the award of a new automobile. Doors at the Armory open at 7 p. m. The exposition will officially close at 10:30 p. m.

Plattekill Man Dies In Lightning Storm

An April thunderstorm that passed over this section of the Mid-Hudson Valley Friday afternoon, claimed the life of a 78-year-old Plattekill man, who was electrocuted when lightning hit him at his trailer home.

State Police and Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser of Kingston investigated the sudden death of Horton Coleman, a veteran of World War I, who lived alone in the trailer on the farm of Lewis and Davis Dawes on East Road, Town of Plattekill.

The lightning ignited the interior of the trailer which was completely gutted by flames that were fought by Plattekill firefighters early yesterday afternoon. Coroner Keyser said the lightning bolt hit Coleman between the left thumb and forefinger, causing instant death.

During the brief thunderstorm which hit the area shortly before 1 p. m., and continued several minutes, rain, hail and snow pelted the area causing slippery conditions on the highways until the storm subsided.

Coroner Keyser said the body was removed after the flames were quelled, and taken to the C. R. Osterhout Funeral Home in Marlboro.

BCI Officer L. M. Luongo and Sergeant Edward Whalen and Trooper Robert Whalen investigated the death with Keyser.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam proposed today a one-day cease-fire despite the threat of expanded warfare in the demilitarized zone, and offered to discuss with North Vietnam the possibility of a longer truce.

With concurrence of the United States and her other allies, South Vietnam proposed a 24-hour truce for May 23, the birthday of Buddha. It proposed meeting representatives of North Vietnam in the demilitarized zone at the Ben Hai Bridge to consider a possible extension.

Fighting Expands
Expanded fighting in the zone has been matter of mounting concern.

The U.S. mission disclosed that six nurses were evacuated from Hue, biggest city near the zone, and that preparations have been made to evacuate about 50 other American civilians in the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese are known to have some 35,000 soldiers in the immediate area of the demilitarized zone.

Some U.S. officials occasionally have voiced fears of a direct Red invasion across the DMZ. Tension began to mount when the North Vietnamese attacked the South Vietnamese civil police post Wednesday and followed the next day with a wave of pre-dawn attacks on Quang Tri City just 10 miles to the south.

Ky Protests
South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky formally protested the attack on the police post and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu threatened to invade the north or bomb Hanoi.

If the truce proposal is agreed on, it will be the fourth cease-fire in less than four months. There was a two-day truce last Christmas, another on New Year's and a third lasting four days to observe Tet, the Buddhist lunar new year in February.

Today, with a temporary lull in action along the buffer zone, the South Vietnamese proposed the 24-hour truce. They included safeguards to prevent the Reds from resupplying their forces as they did during the February truce.

The statement by the Foreign Ministry repeated the South Vietnamese offer to meet at any time with North Vietnamese military officers to discuss a military cease-fire. This offer was made by Premier Ky last month in a note to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

Buddhist groups around the world had appealed to South Vietnam to observe a truce on Buddha's birthday. Normally the birthday celebrations in Buddhist countries last for one week.

All in Accord
The South Vietnamese statement said the truce proposal was made with the concurrence of all the powers which took part in last year's Manila conference — the United States, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea and South Vietnam.

The air war over North Vietnam continued unabated despite the lull on the ground.

American pilots flew 102 missions over the north Friday and four destroyers bombarded the coast — including the Turner Joy which was hit by a Red shore battery.

The Turner Joy, accompanied by the destroyer Duncan, had moved inshore to bombard a string of barges near dusk when a Red shell blew an 18-inch hole in her superstructure.

Will Not Yield In Vietnam

Romney Declares Campaign Stand

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney vows a Republican White House under his command would not yield to Communist terms in Vietnam. Democrats said Romney's position would lessen the war's impact as a presidential campaign issue.

Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky said Romney spoke the view of an American majority — "that we should follow the lead of the President" in the Asian conflict.

Strong Endorsement
The White House called the Michigan governor's words "a strong endorsement of the administration's position on Vietnam."

There was Romney criticism, too, but the White House dismissed that as "a few partisan morsels."

For Romney, moving toward a bid for nomination to challenge President Johnson in 1968, Friday night's speech was a crucial pre-campaign test. His supporters were convinced he had passed.

One influential Republican who privately has expressed misgivings about Romney said the governor had strengthened his political position. He said a specific position on the war was essential to Romney's budding candidacy.

The position Romney took: "It is unthinkable that the United States withdraw from Vietnam."

Must Succeed
"Our military effort must succeed. I believe that we must use military force as necessary to reduce or cut off the flow of men and supplies from North Vietnam, to knock out enemy main force units, and to provide a military shield for the south."

We must give our gallant fighting men our full support," Romney unveiled his Vietnam policy before more than 500 persons at a black-tie dinner celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Hartford Times.

"Basically, he comes out in full support of Lyndon Johnson," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who was there. "A few more statements like this and Vietnam ceases to be a political issue. It seems the Republican party has accepted the position of the Democratic party as the national position."

Score, Decisions
Romney criticized past Johnson decisions, said Congress has been bypassed and charged that on the war produced "a rupture administration pronouncements of trust" between the government and the governor. He counseled against "massive military escalation" and outlined a proposed future "peace with amnesty" for defeated Communists in South Vietnam.

In his speech Friday night, Romney said any Communist belief that the United States will falter in Vietnam is a false hope, and added: "I have even heard that the leaders in Hanoi think a Republican administration might come into power that would settle on their terms. For what it is worth, I would like to tell them right now that here is one Republican I can speak for who will not settle on their terms under any circumstances."

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey, who also is Connecticut Democratic chairman, was in the audience. "I can't quarrel too much with what he said," Bailey said. "I think he'll make some members of our party unhappy, and he'll probably make some members of our party unhappy."

Bailey said Johnson would not be among the unhappy Democrats. He was right.

"It is especially gratifying

Award Pact for Air Photo of HR Valley

Embroiled in a battle to have cuts sliced from its budget by the State Legislature restored, the Hudson River Valley Commission made additional news on three other fronts today — news involving a new location, the awarding of an aerial photography contract, and a public hearing of major importance in Poughkeepsie next week.

Alexander Aldrich, executive director of the commission, established only last year to coordinate planning along the historic river, said June will be moving month for his staff, due to leave Iona Island, near Bear Mountain, for Tarrytown.

The choice Tarrytown site, at the eastern end of the Tappan Zee Bridge and in a three-story Georgian-style brick building, got the nod over more than a dozen other locations which had been considered and had bid for the honor of having the commission based in their communities.

The new headquarters at 105 White Plains Road, just off Route 9, was selected for its easy accessibility to many communities along the Hudson in the State, as well as to New Jersey and Washington, from which many people interested in the commission's work are expected to come. The commission is ultimately slated to operate under a compact with both New Jersey and the Federal government and, looking to the future, picked its new headquarters, a former private residence converted to office use, because of its nearness to parkways, the Thruway and the White Plains airport. Here, offices, drafting rooms, a conference room and technical library will take shape and a staff of some 60 employees will eventually occupy the site to plan, engineer, landscape, preserve, finance, develop and administer decisions on the Hudson.

Monday will see a public hearing on the commission's proposed rules and regulations for reviewing projects along the river—a hearing to be held at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Forbus Street high school. Sitting on the panel will be Carl J. Mays and Dr. Alan Simpson. Mays, a Cornwall resident and planning director of Orange County, and Dr. Simpson, president of Vassar College, urge all local officials, community groups and private citizens to attend Monday's hearing, one of six being held at central locations along the river, and take the opportunity of commenting on proposed procedures which will affect the future of the river and its valley.

Report Mid-East Rift Widening, Air Fights Rage

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria charged each other with aggression after fighting the sharpest Middle East air battle since the Arab-Israeli war of 1948 Friday in a dispute over border farmland.

Israel took its charges to the United Nations, but did not ask for specific action by the Security Council.

Claims Six
Israel claimed it shot down six Syrian MIG21s in three dog-fights. It said no Israeli Mirage fighters were lost, but one man was killed and one wounded in ground fighting with tanks and artillery.

Syria claimed it downed five Israeli planes and killed at least 70 Israelis, and acknowledged losing four of its own planes. It reported five dead and an unspecified number injured.

Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay sent a letter to Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff, Security Council president, to inform him of what Comay called "continuing acts of aggression and provocation by Syrian armed forces."

Syria did not reply immediately to Israel's aggression charge but when a halt was reported in the firing, Damascus radio said Syrian forces had "put down an Israeli aggression."

Gives Account
Comay's letter gave the Israeli account of events and added: "The present and deliberate resumption by Syrian army positions of the practice of shooting at Israeli farm villages and activities is an extremely serious development which menaces peace and tranquility in the border area and the region."

Verbal backing for Syria came quickly from its Arab

Survey Reveals One-Third Ulster 9W Traffic Enters Shopping Area

A traffic count made by the Town of Ulster in the area where the state proposes to construct the new Arterial Route, shows that approximately a third of the traffic entering the area at the cloverleaf on 9W is destined for the shopping area between the cloverleaf on the north and the city line.

At the April meeting of the Town Board held Thursday evening a report was made on the recent traffic count made to determine the number of vehicles and the point of origin and destination.

32 Per Cent Shoppers
This report showed that 32 per cent of the vehicles were en route to the shopping area.

There has been much objection to the proposed plan which would deadend 9W at the traffic circle and in effect cut off southbound traffic from the shopping area. The only entrance to the shopping area from the proposed arterial route as originally proposed, would be at Shop-Rite Square at the southerly end of the big shopping area and there is no entrance or exit from the present shopping area in the vicinity of the cloverleaf.

Proposals have been made by the town officials to have the present plan altered to provide for entrance and exit from 9W at the cloverleaf. Under the state's plan 9W would be fun-nelled off into Neighborhood Road with no access from the north to the Caldor-Waldbaum shopping area without coming south to the exit and retracking.

The traffic count indicated that a third of traffic was destined for the shopping area and the balance to the City of Kingston or other points.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz reported to the board on an informal meeting held at the Poughkeepsie office of the State Department of Public Works when alternate plans were proposed. Among those who attended the session were Joseph Cromie, president of Ulster Business Men's Association; Manuel E. Emanuel, planning consultant for the Town of Ulster and Warren Travers, traffic engineer who has been engaged by the town to make a study of the situation and assist in an attempt to offer alternate plans to relieve the problem.

Committee Named
At the board meeting a committee was named by Supervisor Musialkiewicz to make a study of a Parking Ordinance. Named to the committee were Councilman William D. Costello, Justice Robert S. Stedje and Supervisor Musialkiewicz. The committee will study the feasibility of an ordinance to regulate parking of vehicles on the town roads which in winter obstruct the removal of snow. A report will be received at the May meeting.

At the March meeting bids for salt and chemicals for the Ulster Water District and the Whittier Sewer District were received. Contracts were awarded Thursday night to Jones Chemical Company, low bidder for chemicals for the sewer district and to Morton and International Salt Companies for salt. Both companies submitted identical bids for salt. The companies will share the contract.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz was authorized to negotiate with local banks for $18,495 to pay for the new Elgin street sweeper

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Gilbert Neil Amelio, artist, sculptor, poet, athlete, Air Force officer and a student nearing graduation from law school, has evolved one of the greatest expressions of faith that this artist-writer has ever been privileged to see.

It started when Gil, now a Major at Randolph Air Force base in Texas, was stationed on a lonely radar site island. A devout Catholic, he made a Novena, praying for an assignment where his wife and four children could be with him. His prayers were answered with a four-year tour at the University of Detroit, and Amelio responded with a promise to do something with his hands to express his faith.

He conceived "The Face of Christ." It is a 40-minute dramatic presentation in which he models the head of Christ from 300 pounds of clay. This is done to music. His dialogue helps portray Christ's face through two art periods—the Byzantine and the Italian Renaissance—and concludes with the Passion. Major Amelio has presented it to groups in all denominations, and the response has always been the same, "A gripping spiritual and artistic experience."

Methodist Men Sponsor Play by Bishop's Company

"Do You Know the Milky Way?", a modern soul searching drama by Karl Wittlinger, will be presented at the St. James Methodist Church of Kingston on April 24, at 7:30 p. m.

The play is sponsored by the Kingston Methodist Men's Club. Performing will be the nationally known Bishop's Company of Burbank, Cal., now in its 15th year of appearing in houses of worship of all denominations in both the United States and Canada.

"Do You Know the Milky Way?" is a powerfully revealing struggle of a man to find his true identity. He sees the world as it can be and not as it is. He is unashamed to admit to such feelings as "faith" and "fear" and to learn the potentials of both.

Founder-producer, Phyllis Beardsley Baker, of the Bishop's Company, said of "Do You Know the Milky Way?" It is "sometimes puzzling, but always pointing the way to answers."

More than 9,000 performances, in nine languages have been given of this work which has been very favorably reviewed by such critics as Walter Kerr and Robert Coleman.

Tickets are available from the men of the Methodist Churches of Kingston or by contacting Earl Little or Leroy Singleton. Any tickets still unsold on April 24, may be obtained at the door.

Unitarians Hear Newburgh Pastor

"Breaking the Value Barrier" will be the topic of the Sunday address at the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Guy W. Meyer of the Newburgh Unitarian Church.

A graduate of the University of Chicago and the Harvard Divinity School, the Rev. Meyer has served churches in Arlington, Mass., and Saugus, Mass. He has a wide background, working at various times as a labor organizer, merchant seaman, labor newspaper reporter, helped establish Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York, helped establish Peace Council in Ulster County.

The Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at the Pickett House, Neighborhood Road and Lohmeyer Lane in Lake Katrine, adjacent to the IBM plant. The meetings are open to the public.

Prayer Anthology Offers Wide Range of Selections

By GERARD MCNEIL
Canadian Press Writer

OTTAWA, Canada (AP)—The Centennial Anthology of Prayer, a milestone in religious literature, might have been high and mighty.

Instead it is as humble as the prayer for elevator operators. One of its 185 invocations.

"Lord, You understand my position," begins that prayer. It goes on to an acceptance of the inevitable ups and downs of the job and of life.

Publisher of the anthology is the Canadian Interfaith Conference, which has 34 member faiths. The editorial committee included Roman Catholics, Jews, Anglican and United Church clergymen.

In the conference, the word ecumenism, a Christian movement of unity, is avoided in deference to Buddhist, Muslim, Jewish and other non-Christian members.

Even the cross can't be used as a general symbol. Instead, the cover of the anthology carries the white swirl of a galaxy in the blue-black depths of space.

Editor Ramsay Armitage, an Anglican who is principal emeritus of Toronto's Wycliffe College, was swamped with material.

The foreword says that not all the psalms, epistles, benedictions, litanies and even playlets "are on the same level of creativity."

"The sense of unity of all Canadians praying together was what we hoped to achieve," writes Montreal businessman Lavv M. Becker, the conference chairman and a former rabbi.

Though more than one-third of the contents is in French, the anthology generally avoids translation.

"Everything suffers in translation," says Becker. "Protestant prayers written in the Elizabethan era didn't make any sense translated into French."

An exception is the Lord's Prayer, rendered not only in English and French but in Eskimo.

The public may attend.

Ahavath Israel

Tuesday evening at 6:30, the congregations of Ahavath Israel Synagogue and the Fair Street Reformed Church will meet in the parish room of the Fair Street Church.

The program for the evening will consist of a meal followed by a presentation by Rabbi Harry Scheetman on the traditions and worship of the Conservative Jews. Young people from Ahavath Israel have also been asked to demonstrate Israeli dances.

Separate serving tables will be used, and Kosher food brought by the members of the Synagogue. The evening promises to be one of good fellowship, so organized so as to lead to a greater appreciation and understanding between Christians and Jews.

The program is open to interested members of the community.

LWML Spring Rally

Charities Drive Workers to Have Breakfast Fete

Francis Cardinal Spellman will preside Sunday at the annual communion breakfast of the lay chairman responsible for the organization of the door-to-door canvass of the 1967 New York Catholic Charities Fund Appeal in the 416 parishes of the Archdiocese.

It is the only communion breakfast that his Eminence attends. It will be held in the cafeteria of the New York Foundling Hospital, 1175 Third Avenue, at 10 a. m.

John A. Coleman, chairman of the Cardinal's Special Gifts Committee for the annual fund appeal, will be master of ceremonies. Guest speaker on the occasion will be Sister M. Baptista, administrative consultant of the Child Care Department of Catholic Charities.

The Catholic Charities Child Care Department is responsible for the planning and coordination of the child welfare programs of 28 child care institutions and agencies which annually minister to the needs of more than 16,000 dependent, neglected, physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped children, as well as those who require day care.

Preceding the breakfast there will be a

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 8, 1967

BUDGET DEFICIT

President Johnson's proposed fiscal 1968 budget is under attack from two sides, primarily because of its great rise in domestic spending.

The Republican Coordinating Committee, composed of former presidential candidates, governors, congressional leaders and party officials, declared the $135 billion administrative budget with its planned $18 billion deficit is based on "optimistic assumptions" that could produce a $30 billion deficit.

It asked Johnson immediately to withdraw his call for a 6 per cent surtax on personal and corporate income taxes and put more effort into checking the growth of nondefense spending. It warned that not only would declining conditions require abandonment of the surtax but may even demand a tax reduction to prevent a more serious slump.

The American Enterprise Institute, a nonprofit research organization, used the cash payments budget which Johnson put at $172.4 billion, but which the institute said will reach $178.7 billion. The cash payments budget includes payments for Social Security, highways and other items handled through trust funds. They totaled $140.8 billion in 1966. They would increase by $38 billion, or 27 per cent, with domestic spending accounting for 26 per cent, according to institute figures.

Whether on the basis of the administrative budget the Republicans analyze or the cash payment budget the institute discusses, the apparent deficit is several times that predicted by the President. They are enough to warn him and the nation that domestic spending must be soft-pedaled while a war is being fought. That is perhaps the most obdurate fact of war for the money spenders to admit and practice.

WORLD WEATHER WATCH

One hundred nations, with the United States and the Soviet Union in leading roles, have launched the first world weather watch.

The watch was organized by the World Meteorological Organization to study the elements with satellites, rockets, high-speed telecommunications and a network of weather-watching ships and planes. It is the biggest man-made attempt to read the weather simultaneously, everywhere on earth.

Alf Nyberg of Sweden, the president of the world organization, told the 300 international experts who convened for the launching of the weather watch at Geneva, that the worldwide weather system would benefit economic developments throughout the world.

Weather is most important in this country, and we are very much interested, in its effects on our own and the economy of the rest of the world. But the first question an American asks of all this immense undertaking is, will it improve the weather? That would be the most worth while result imaginable.

Global View

By LEON DENNEN

Foreign News Analyst
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA) — An unprecedented "democratic" experiment is under way in Yugoslavia as voters are preparing to elect a new federal parliament.

For the first time in the history of a Communist country there will be more candidates than seats in parliament. Even more significant is the provision in the new Yugoslav law that voters have a right to nominate candidates of their own choice who must not necessarily be members of the ruling Communist party.

Younger men and women with modern ideas and not only professional Red bureaucrats have thus been given an opportunity to run in the elections.

Many of them are the "new men and women" of Yugoslavia — factory managers, engineers, economists and intellectuals—who are more concerned with the practical problems of keeping the country afloat than in parroting Lenin's stale dogmas.

In fact, Leninism has become the major casualty of President Tito's fascinating reforms. In all the discussions concerning the reorganization of Yugoslav society that have been going on since 1966, the name of Lenin has been conspicuously absent.

In a recent editorial in Yugoslavia's important theoretical journal the writer even referred to Tito's concept of a "Socialist party" instead of using the term "Marxist-Leninist" party employed in other Communist countries.

The current election campaign is taking place at an exciting moment in Yugoslavia's history. Tito is constantly under pressure to limit drastically the power of the professional Communists, to give the people more to say in the conduct of foreign policy and to allow freedom of religion.

Leading Yugoslav opinion makers no longer consider religion as an obstacle to the construction of socialism. They insist that Communists and believers should engage in dialogues in order to enable each to influence the other's views.

Even priests, they say, are necessary in a Communist state because they give people "expert consolation." Only when socialism succeeds in bringing "heavenly happiness" down to earth will priests become unnecessary because no need for consolation will exist.

Meanwhile, Communists are advised to forget Marx and Lenin who considered religion as "the opiate of the people."

Perhaps the most significant change in Yugoslavia is the gradual liberation of the press from Communist control.

With the development of the idea that the Communist party should assume an educational rather than a commanding role, the press and other communication media are in a process of radical change.

As Yugoslav leaders see it, the Communists must not abandon trying to influence public opinion. But newspapers, radio and television should be responsible neither to the state nor the party but to the people whose instruments they are.

In order to avoid tensions because of what appears in the press, the Yugoslav state apparatus should become more open and more democratic.

The elections in Yugoslavia are therefore of more than local interest. As it happened in the past, other East European Communist countries eventually will reach the position Yugoslavia is in today. The Yugoslav experience will be their guideline.

But let us have no illusions and rejoice prematurely. Yugoslavia is not yet a democracy. It is still a nation ruled by one party—the Communist party.

However, one thing seems clear: the Leninist creed is dying. Yugoslavia and Lenin is no longer a prophesy 50 years after he established his dictatorship in Russia as model for other countries to follow.

Who said Communist nations are immune from the lure of Western freedom?

Tito, who was the first to resist Russia's domination, again is the trail blazer for his East European colleagues.

Your Dental Health

Position in Dental Chair
May Cause Difficulties

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Mother-in-Law of Prominent Dentist Nearly Dies in His Office

That nearly was a headline in New York newspaper recently—and all because the patient was lying in an almost horizontal position in a dental chair. Fortunately, the lady recovered.

Usually this position is relaxing for a patient and, of course, convenient for a dentist since he has better access to teeth in the upper jaw. But for some patients it can be uncomfortable, and for a few it can be dangerous.

This mother-in-law's difficulty was because she had two chronic conditions which simultaneously became acute problems: 1. Hiatus hernia which allowed stomach contents to regurgitate into the esophagus causing severe heartburn (her appointment was immediately after lunch); 2. Chronic bronchitis which caused wheezing and sudden shortness of breath.

The dentist said she became cyanotic and almost stopped breathing, gasping for air. This was of very short duration, but she's still breathing hard.

There are other conditions which are apt to make dental patients uncomfortable when lying in a prone position, and some of these can cause considerable difficulties:

Miniere's disease—Patients may become dizzy. Asthma—Certain work, such as impression taking, may provoke sudden attack.

Severe cold—One should avoid dental treatment at such time, but if emergencies must be treated upright position is usually best for proper breathing.

Sinusitis—Maxillary sinus infection, which causes filling up of sinuses, can cause severe pain when lying down.

Emphysema—Causes difficulty in breathing.

To these must be added any kind of congestive heart failure, such as, valvular heart disease, old infarct, weakened heart muscle, and possible cerebral vascular insufficiency.

These conditions are further exaggerated by tension which is sometimes associated with dentistry.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

New simplified applications furnished by the Welfare Department of New York City to welfare applicants puts more faith in the applicant's word. But the start of a year-long experiment did not produce a rush of new applicants. It didn't seem to make any difference how much their word was trusted.

Archbishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio, preaching to a congregation including President Johnson and his family, quoted the late Pope Pius XII: "Unjust aggression must be halted by the nations as a whole. Such intervention is not merely allowed and lawful, it is a sad and heavy obligation imposed by the mandate of love." Archbishop Lucey has bolstered the view of most patriotic Americans.

DO YOU REMEMBER

BY SOPHIE MILLER

The April 1967 Collectors News has an interesting illustrated article on U. S. lotteries, which helped build bridges, roads, industries, even churches. It is written by Philip Gardiner Nordell, collector of old American lottery tickets. He is shown with several of his lottery exhibit in the college library last June.

Framed in one case are six tickets bought by George Washington, with a handbill at the left on which Washington wrote on the bottom margin, "5298 to 5303 inclusive kept by GW." These are the numbers of the tickets.

Nordell explains that lotteries were not commonly utilized as a normal method of raising money, but when an emergency arose and further taxation was not expedient or when subscriptions and all other methods had failed they turned to lotteries in the second half of the 18th century, and continued through the first quarter of the 19th century. Some of the emergencies perhaps were to rebuild a washed out bridge, to improve a country road, pave city streets, remove obstructions to river navigation, foster a new industry, build a government building beyond the means of a local community, or even to help worthy individuals in distress, like widows with small children.

Thus, even to this day, of 1967, the same problems arise and need for money, when taxation has gone beyond the possibility of further taxing the hard working middle class. He mentions that there is sufficient evidence of the respectability of the early lotteries, as so many of the old colleges, like Brown, Columbia, Dartmouth, Harvard, Princeton, Rutgers, Yale, etc., used lotteries to pay their expenses.

Nordell lectures on old American lotteries, and has a collection of some 4,000 lottery tickets, with some 1,700 are different, and about 700 were issued before 1830, which proves it was the American way. The Collectors News shows a reversible cartoon, on the Massachusetts Charlestown Lottery, drawn in 1780. It shows a profile view of a man in a wig and powdered hair, and a bulky collar. There is printing at top and bottom, one way he smiles and the other way he frowns, an old cartoon trick.

Mr. Nordell shows the only known undated pair of tickets, for the Virginia Mountain Road Lottery, of which so far at least 30 singles have turned up. Most of the value of these tickets, lies in the autographed signature of George Washington. There is another ticket dated New York City of New York, May 16th, 1803. "For the relief of poor widows with small children." Another ticket, called "Class the First, United States Lottery. This ticket entitles the bearer to receive such prize as may be drawn against its number, according to a resolution of Congress, passed at Philadelphia, Nov. 18, 1776." It is said, General Washington urged his troops to buy tickets in this lottery, run in four classes, to help pay the cost of the Revolutionary War. Those were the days in the 1770's when it was used for ss, as for instance the word Resolution for Resolution.

One now wonders just what the 1967 New York State Lottery will be like. These are very interesting times we are living in as changes are drastic, and constant. Every day is another surprise, in our laws and way of life, perhaps it time it will simmer down. Sometimes I wonder if the builders of our country could see what is going on what advice they would give. This modern civilization has certainly brought about a great deal of unrest in all age groups.

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Behind the scenes, there's growing worry in the Pentagon about the Castro underground in some sections of Latin America.

Recent outbreaks have occurred in Colombia and Venezuela; a state of emergency has been decreed for southeast Bolivia, but the problem is much wider than these three countries. Only a small part of the underground-organized unrest shows.

Despite the Alliance for Progress and attempts by some Latin governments to improve the sad rural conditions on which subversive insurgents feed, things are getting worse. Paradoxically, some of the worst problems today are in countries which have made determined efforts in the past five to 10 years.

Take Bolivia as one example. Gen Jorge Belmonte Ardiles, commander of the Bolivian army reports a "guerrilla army" in the southeast of the country. For some time, political unrest and disturbances in the Bolivian mining areas have detracted from the effectiveness of rural reconstruction and military-civic action. In fact, the political unrest has caused a considerable number of army units to suspend work on civic action projects and shift back to internal security operations.

Yet Bolivia was one of the first Latin countries to take decisive land reform steps. In 1953 the government provided by law for extensive land redistribution, settlement of new areas and improvements in tenancy conditions.

In the early 1950s, 2,500 to 25,000 acre-properties accounted for 70 per cent of the farmland. By August 1966, 17 million acres had been redistributed to 179,000 farm families and 165,000 farm families already occupied an other 13 million acres on which expropriation proceedings were pending.

Farm employment practices that came close to indentured labor have been abolished. A strong rural union movement has been created. Universal suffrage is in effect. Rural educational and health standards have gradually improved. Bolivia's per capita Gross National Product has been slightly more than 2.5 per cent a year — above the Latin average.

Strong attempts are being made to promote migration from densely populated rural areas to the eastern lowlands. New roads linked to navigable rivers are connecting lowland communities and providing farm sales outlets.

But delays in confirming titles have hurt farm investments and agricultural credit. Despite strong government efforts to boost education, Bolivia had an illiteracy rate of 63 per cent in 1964. Of every 1,000 youngsters who entered the first grade, fewer than 300 completed primary school. Many rural teachers haven't gone beyond primary school.

There is only one doctor for each 16,000 rural inhabitants. The average life expectancy is 50 years at birth, one of the lowest in Latin America. Infant mortality is 98 per 1,000 live births. Intestinal diseases and tuberculosis are widespread. There is malnutrition, deficient sanitation and little preventive medicine.

With less than one million families, Bolivia had an estimated housing deficit of 615,000 units in 1966. The typical rural home is a windowless, one-room mud and wattle enclosure with earthen floor and thatched roof, built from primitive materials by the occupants.

Some improvements are going to have to be made in our Latin program if the insurgencies that surface from time to time are to be prevented from turning into Cubas or Vietnams.

The Federal Reserve approved the reduction at the request of directors of Federal Reserve banks in 10 of the system's 12 districts.

The lower rate became effective Friday in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco districts.

The Atlanta and St. Louis banks were expected to follow. The board said the reduction was in line with recent declines in market rates and is in keeping with Federal Reserve policy objectives in assuring that availability of credit is adequate to provide for orderly economic growth.

Desperation Signs Showing

Mao Faction Still Finding Victory Beyond Its Grasp

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

After eight months of ferocious struggle, the Mao Tse-tung faction at the pinnacle of power in Red China still finds final victory beyond its grasp. There are signs that in desperation it is trying to force a showdown.

If the faction does not win complete victory soon, there may not be much point to winning at all. Ahead is a specter of economic disaster. If it brings widespread hunger, it can mean a long period of internal violence and international complications.

Victory Near Twice

Victory had seemed near at least twice for the supporters of Defense Minister Lin Biao, who has made himself chief interpreter of Mao and his apparent to his authority. But the quarry proved elusive and durable.

Now the Lin-Mao faction is turning again to its key terror weapon — the teen-age Red Guards and the slightly more — in an attempt to destroy the adult "Revolutionary Rebels" — in an attempt to destroy the chief of state. President Liu Shao-chi, and with him his influential allies: Teng Hsiao-ning, the Communist party general secretary; and Tao Chu, the able politician who rode high for a while as propaganda czar. The Mao-Lin faction's failure probably lies in the party's Central Committee. If it were united, there would be no question about the outcome. But the Mao-Lin faction — though it has the power to organize the kids in the streets — has not yet been strong enough to annul one of the key rules laid down by the Central Committee for the conduct of Mao's "Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution."

That was point 11 in the 16-point communiqué adopted in August at the meeting which spawned the great purge. It specified that "criticism of anyone by name in the press should be decided after discussion by the party committee at the same level, and in some cases submitted to the party committee at a higher level for approval."

Not Named in Press

Liu has been attacked by innuendo, by implication, by attacks on his writings in the official press, but neither the official press nor the radio has mentioned him by name. The attacks by name are only in the "Ta Tse Pao" — the Red Guards' wall newspapers.

Since the president and his allies are not named in the press, it is reasonable to assume that they still have considerable support in the Central Committee, and their foes must use other tools.

The wall newspapers had indicated that Liu almost lost out at the August meeting. Again, at a Central Committee meeting in late October, the wall newspapers said Liu's back was to the wall and he was obliged to "confess." His confession, a relayed by the wall posters, was a relief. He called himself an inferior person who had underestimated Mao's teachings. But he was not forced.

The Liu-Teng forces seem to gain strength in November. They weathered the storm of the so-called January revolution which was supposed to have been the final hawkmaker at the handful of people in authority in the party who took the capitalist road.

The January revolution was carried out under the slogan of "Seize the Power." Mao's forces attacked the party apparatus at province and city levels all over China. In many provinces they claimed victory. But reports from those provinces in Chinese-language domestic broadcasts make it plain that the power seizure has been far from complete in many instances and that the struggle is continuing.

Sounds of Urgency

Meanwhile, a note of extreme urgency sounds in appeals to the peasantry to get on with the spring planting, and appeals to workers to stay on their jobs in industry.

Along China's frontier with the Soviet Union, serious situations seem to be developing. The Russians are deliberately mounting an inflammatory propaganda to convince the non-Chinese people in those areas that they are being victimized by Peking. Should there be a major upheaval in Peking, it is not far-fetched to speculate that the Russians might move into Sinkiang — site of China's nuclear bomb installations — and even other areas to provide puppet regimes which would serve in the future as buffers.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The money market eased further during the week, heightening the prospects of business expansion.

The Federal Reserve Board approved a cut in its discount rate to 4 per cent from 4½ per cent.

Reduced Rate

This reduced the interest that member banks have to pay on borrowings from the Federal Reserve system.

The discount rate is the base from which other interest charges stem.

A tight money condition prevailed last year and high-interest rates held down borrowing by business for expansion and modernization.

The first break came in late January when Chase Manhattan Bank of New York reduced its prime rate — the interest charged the biggest and most credit-worthy borrowers — to 5½ per cent from 6 per cent.

Most banks cut only to 5½ per cent then. But in late March they came down to 5½.

Another indication of the easing money situation came last Monday when the yield on Treasury bills dropped below 4 per cent for the first time in 18 months.

Commenting on the Federal Reserve Board's action, a New York banker said, "In time, consumers should be able to borrow more cheaply but, by the same token, probably will get less for their savings."

Approved Reduction

The Federal Reserve approved the reduction at the request of directors of Federal Reserve banks in 10 of the system's 12 districts.

The lower rate became effective Friday in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco districts.

The Atlanta and St. Louis banks were expected to follow. The board said the reduction was in line with recent declines in market rates and is in keeping with Federal Reserve policy objectives in assuring that availability of credit is adequate to provide for orderly economic growth.

Television stars and truck drivers and race horse owners were in the same boat during the week.

All were in strife with the people who pay their salaries, wages and purses.

This turmoil made its impact on business and the public and was an indication that 1967 may live up to forecasts of the most serious labor troubles in recent years.

Public Aware

The public was most aware of the strike of the 18,000 members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists against the three big networks — NBC, CBS and ABC — and their affiliated stations. David Brinkley and Johnny Carson were off the air. Hugh Downs, John Daly and Betty Furness hit the bricks to picket.

Some shows were dropped and replaced with reruns. Networks' troubles mounted as unions representing stagehands, electricians and other nonperforming television and radio employees honored AFTRA picket lines.

At stake for the networks were millions of dollars in advertising revenues.

The strike stemmed from the demand of television newsmen for a minimum salary of $325 a week, plus percentages of commercial fees.

The 450,000 member Teamsters Union was locked in negotiations for a new contract with the trucking industry. Federal mediators worked to stave off a threatened nationwide shutdown.

No Threat

Sources close to the talks said there appeared no immediate threat of a walkout but that the situation could change at any time.

Union sources indicated that local unions in some areas were becoming restive.

The union sought a 56 cents an hour wage increase over three years and the operators offered 37 cents. Truckers now make from $3.25 to $5 an hour, plus fringe benefits.

The horses didn't run at New York's Aqueduct Race Track because of a demand by the stable owners for higher purses. When the legislature failed to authorize a bigger share of betting proceeds for purses, the 2,000 horse owners and trainers refused to enter horses in any races.

Among the holdouts were financiers John Hay Whitney and Jack Dreyfus Jr.

They didn't call their action a strike but it had that effect.

On the horizon are labor contract negotiations in the automobile and building industries with unions reportedly expecting hefty wage boosts.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said during the week the most recent economic information points to a continued moderation in the pace of overall activity.

Blame Weather

It added that "unusually severe weather conditions" through March "significantly affected production and sales."

The bank noted that positive factors in the economic picture were the prospect of restoration of the 7 per cent business investment credit and an easing of the money market.

The Johnson administration was reported backing away from a July 1 effective date for its proposed 6 per cent surtax on income taxes.

It was said, was because of opposition in Congress to the surtax and the current sluggishness in the economy.

However, key officials insisted that the surtax was still very much alive and will be needed in the second half of the year to stem inflation in what they predicted will then be an expanding economy.

Coppolino Jury Picked In Florida

By DON NORTH
NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — An all-male jury, chosen from 75 persons over a five-day period, will hear the murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino, accused of slaying his wife.

The parade of prospective jurors ended Friday afternoon after the candidates were examined for prejudice, and inability to vote the death penalty or to convict on circumstantial evidence.

One man, D. B. House Jr., was dismissed after telling the court he believed Coppolino was guilty because he had "the most important lawyer in the United States" and wouldn't have hired him "if he wasn't guilty."

Coppolino, 34-year old anesthesiologist is charged with first-degree murder in the 1965 death of his first wife, Carmela. The state contends she was injected with a rare drug, succinylcholine.

The defense, led by the Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey, claims Carmela, 32, died of natural causes.

This is Coppolino's second murder trial in six months. He was acquitted in December on charges of killing a family friend in New Jersey. Bailey was his attorney in that trial.

The courtroom was cleared midway through Friday's questioning when a prospective juror said he thought Coppolino was guilty because he had been twice charged with murder.

"It's very strange to me that a man would be charged with two murders," Thomas McKee, a retired executive, told Bailey. "I think he did it and I think you're doing a wonderful job for him." The court dismissed him.

Coppolino was acquitted in Freehold, N.J., last December in the death of retired Army Col. William Farber, a former friend and neighbor. In that case, Farber's widow testified she was Coppolino's mistress.

from between cars stopped for a red light and was struck by another auto, according to city police.

Carmela Laquidaro, 13, of 50 Hanratty Street, suffered a scrape injury of the left side of the face and injuries to the left leg when she was struck by a car operated by Edward F. Dougherty, 36, of 69 Clinton Avenue. The accident happened at the intersection of Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

Two youths were injured shortly before 12:30 a. m. today when a car in which they were passengers went out of control on Route 299 about 5½ miles west of Route 9W, Town of New Paltz, and crashed into two trees.

State Trooper Jerry Henne of the Highland subdivision said Charles Lowe, 19, of 21 Rock Lane, Levittown, was driving east on the highway when a westbound car appeared in the eastbound lane and Lowe swerved to avoid a head-on collision. Lowe's car hit a utility pole on the shoulder, veered off the pavement and hit a tree, and continued on and hit a second tree.

Passengers injured and taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment were Philip Graziano, 18, of Wilcox Road, Whitesboro, who sustained scalp lacerations, and Ronald Helmrich, 19, of 720 Waissa Drive, Rochester, received lacerations of the forehead. Troopers Stanley Kowalski and Thomas Kelley investigated.

Robert L. Myer, 23, of West Camp, was injured at 12:30 a. m. today when he lost control of his car on Route 354 at Fromer Street, Tannersville, and hit a utility pole, according to State Trooper V. L. LaPlante of the Leeds subdivision. Myer was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance and treated for lacerations of the lip. He was cited by troopers for failure to keep right. Troopers reported the car was traveling east on the highway at the time of the mishap.

At 1:45 a. m. Edward G. Stankovich, 22, of Box 101, Cementon, was injured when his car careened out of control on Malden Avenue about two-tenths of a mile west of Woodlawn Lane, Palenville, and hit a utility pole. Stankovich was taken from the scene of the mishap to the hospital at Catskill by Saugerties Ambulance and treated for lacerations of the neck and bruises of the shoulder and chest. Trooper LaPlante said the vehicle was traveling west on Malden Avenue when the mishap occurred.

that the governor has refused to permit the war to become an issue between him and the President," said White House press secretary George Christian. "In over-all terms he deserves the gratitude of the American people for maintaining our great position that politics stops at the water's edge."

Romney foreclosed questions about his Vietnam speech, but he said there was more to come on the subject.

As the result of continued observation and a personal inspection later in the year, I will have more to say in the future," he said.

Slate Rondout Meeting Sunday

There will be an open public meeting at 7 p. m. Sunday, at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway.

The purpose of the meeting will be to acquaint residents of the area with the Rondout Neighborhood Service Center, a Community Action facility now fully staffed and operating.

What the Center can mean to the people of the neighborhood will be explained at the meeting.

Information about jobs and job training, housing, health and child care programs, legal aid, and other matters of concern to the community will be discussed.

All residents are urged and invited to attend the meeting.

New York Sniper Is In Custody

NEW YORK (AP) — Tracing the trajectory of a bullet, police seized an alleged sniper who shot one man to death Friday.

Police tracked the trajectory of the bullet that tore through the coat sleeve of another on Manhattan's West Side.

The dead man was Arthur Hayes, 43, shot in the head in front of the Hotel Stratton on West 85th St.

Shortly before Hayes was killed, Raymond De Coste, 50, a building superintendent, dashed into the hotel lobby after hearing a shot and discovering a bullet hole in his coat sleeve. De Coste called police.

Police, tracking the trajectory of the bullet that tore through De Coste's coat, decided it had been fired from the sixth floor of a building across the street.

Officers went to the room occupied by Edward Beasley, 24, an unemployed laborer, and found a .22 caliber rifle and a box of ammunition.

Beasley, who told police he had been firing at birds and "didn't know" he had hit anyone, was charged with homicide and held without bail.

neighbors, Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq. The Israelis said they were prepared "to extend the fullest support to Syria against the Israeli aggression."

But, despite a Unified Arab Military Command designed to combat Israel, none sent military aid. Syria said the battle broke out when an Israeli tractor crossed into the demilitarized zone and began plowing.

"We asked repeatedly that the tractor be removed, but the enemy refused, so we were forced to open fire," said a communiqué from Damascus.

One Damaged

Israel's army chief of staff, Gen. Izhak Rabin, said that after one Israeli tractor was damaged, armored tractors were brought in.

"The action quickly escalated when the Syrians brought in heavy tanks and artillery and also started direct shelling of Israeli settlements," Rabin said.

"The fire was returned from the Israeli side," he said. "The Israeli air force went into action to silence Syrian positions and scored many direct hits."

He told newsmen Israeli pilots were given a free hand to chase Syrian planes into Syria "even up to the outskirts of Damascus."

The clash was the most serious Israeli-Arab battle since Israel invaded the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula in 1956. In that battle, French-built Israeli planes destroyed the Egyptian MIG air-strike power on the ground.

Syria's plane losses were believed to be a serious blow to that nation's air force, estimated by military analysts at 20 MIG21s and 80 slower MIGs. Unconfirmed reports say Syria has only a handful of pilots considered politically reliable enough to be trusted with armed planes.

Boy Maimed by Train

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — An 8-year-old Bay City boy lost his left foot and suffered severe damage to his right leg Friday when he tried to hitch a ride on a passing freight train.

Martin Obermiller told police his grip slipped and he fell to the tracks. Police at first reported the lad lost both feet, but a Bay City Mercy Hospital supervisor said there was a chance doctors could save his lower right leg which nearly was severed in the accident.

Phone Company Investigation Reaching Climax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most important part of the government's investigation of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. reaches a climax this month — and the results ultimately will affect every telephone user in the nation.

What the Federal Communications Commission decides after final arguments during the next couple of weeks will determine how much the world's largest communications combine may be permitted to earn.

Because these earnings translate into charges for telephone calls, the results will reach virtually every American home.

Obviously, the investigation concerns only AT&T's financial structure affecting interstate and foreign service. But whatever the FCC decides should be AT&T's fair rate of return will be an important factor in similar decisions to be made by public utilities commissioners of every state when they consider local telephone charges.

Since the independent telephone companies — which represent 16 per cent of the nation's 93.9 million telephones — are supporting AT&T's stand, they can be expected to seek equal treatment in both local and long distance charges.

The FCC investigation involves four primary areas. The part most observers consider of greater importance is rate of return.

AT&T says it should be permitted to earn an average of at least 8 per cent on all its investor-supplied funds, working up eventually to 8½ per cent.

Opposing this are several economists hired by the FCC and some state public service commissions. They say AT&T earnings should be limited to 7 per cent.

Traditionally, AT&T has been permitted to earn 7½ to slightly more than 8 per cent. Or, as one AT&T official said, "every time we crowded 8 per cent we came in (to the FCC) and talked."

Last year, AT&T earned 8.19 per cent, "as recorded, and 8.01 per cent, as adjusted for known changes," according to their FCC briefs.

AT&T maintains this rate of return is necessary to attract investors.

But rate of return itself is complicated by underlying issues, including over-all capitalization of the company. The Bell System, for example, believes the company's debt ratio — how much of the company's capital should be represented by debt in the form of loans or bonds — should be 30 to 40 per cent.

Some economists at the FCC believe AT&T should go 50 per cent into debt.

Arrest Window Breaker

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A man wearing the garb of a priest in the Greek Orthodox Church was arrested early today and charged with smashing 14 windows at a shoe store with bricks and a tire jack, police said.

He was identified as Raphael P. Kenel, 44, of the Holy Eucharist Monastery in nearby Dewittville.

Police said he had given no reason for the action.

Damages were set at more than $250, and Kenel was held in the city jail on a felony charge of malicious mischief, pending arraignment in City Court.

The incident occurred at the Brown Built Shoe Store. The man has not tried to flee, police said.

The store is at 15 East Third St.

Bridge Across Atlantic

LONDON (AP) — A scheme to span the Atlantic with a chain of floating platforms for radar control and helicopter landings has been developed by the British firm of Vickers.

Main purpose of the artificial islands is to extend control of civil aircraft movements by radar and enlarge the cruising radius of helicopters.

A Vickers spokesman said an anchoring system had been devised to hold the platforms in precise position in water up to 12,000 feet deep.

Provide Full Protection of Leary at RPI

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — Saturday night's scheduled appearance of Dr. Timothy Leary at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has drawn so many protests that the college yesterday changed the time from 8 p. m. to 6 p. m., so that it would be daylight.

The scene of the lecture by the so-called "high priest" of the LSD drug cult also was shifted from a gymnasium to the Field House, so that police could provide "full protection."

Dr. Byron F. Evans, vice president for students affairs, held a news conference at RPI, in the company of police officials.

The school said it could accommodate 3,600 ticket-holders, but they must be RPI students, faculty members or adult guests. The guests could include students from other colleges.

Meanwhile, the Troy Police Benevolent Association and the Uniformed Firemen's Association added their objection to Leary's appearance. Dist. Atty. M. Andrew Dwyer and the local Chamber of Commerce are among the other objectors.

The RPI Intrafraternity Council is sponsoring the lecture "in an attempt to provide the Rensselaer campus with speakers on topics of national interest."

Dr. Donald B. Louria, president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction, is to debate with Leary. They have done so on other campuses.

John J. Barron, executive vice president of the Intrafraternity Council, told reporters Leary had said by telephone that he was surprised at the "animosity" here.

Leary maintains a home in Millbrook, Dutchess County, and headquarters in New York City. He advocates use of the drug, lysergic acid diethylamide, for ethereal experiences. Opponents say it is hallucinatory and sometimes has dangerous effects.

Stars, Studios Still Far Apart

NEW YORK (AP) — The striking American Federation of Television and Radio Artists and representatives of the three major broadcast networks report no significant progress in their contract dispute, now in its 11th day.

There was little optimism expressed on either side Friday night and the walkout continued to disrupt programming.

Donald Conaway, executive secretary of the AFL-CIO union, emerged angrily from a five-hour negotiating session and said that a Richmond County, Ga., judge had granted a restraining order barring AFTRA pickets from the CBS telecast of the Masters Golf Tournament in Augusta today.

He contended that the order, which would jail pickets, had shoved AFTRA-CBS "relationships back" to the 1880s.

A CBS spokesman said the network had nothing to do with the matter.

Comment on Conaway's statement was not immediately available from tournament officials.

The restraining order was issued by Judge F. Frederick Kennedy on behalf of the Augusta National Golf Course.

The talks, which ended shortly after midnight, were the first since AFTRA negotiators walked out of bargaining sessions in Washington last Sunday.

The strike knocked Monday night's Academy Awards ceremonies off ABC radio and television, caused cancellation of coverage by CBS of this afternoon's Stanley Cup hockey playoffs and Montreal and necessitated a reshuffling of some weekend interview programs.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., refused to cross a picket line to appear on ABC's Sunday colorcast of "Issues and Answers." He was replaced by Barry Goldwater, to be interviewed by ABC supervisory personnel flown to Goldwater's Arizona home.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay refused on two occasions to appear before television cameras, once Friday at a City Hall news conference, and again on a locally televised program planned for Sunday on NBC.

and vital community within Europe," Humphrey said. "In no way do we regard a strong, uniting Europe as being in conflict with our own interests or with the interests of peace."

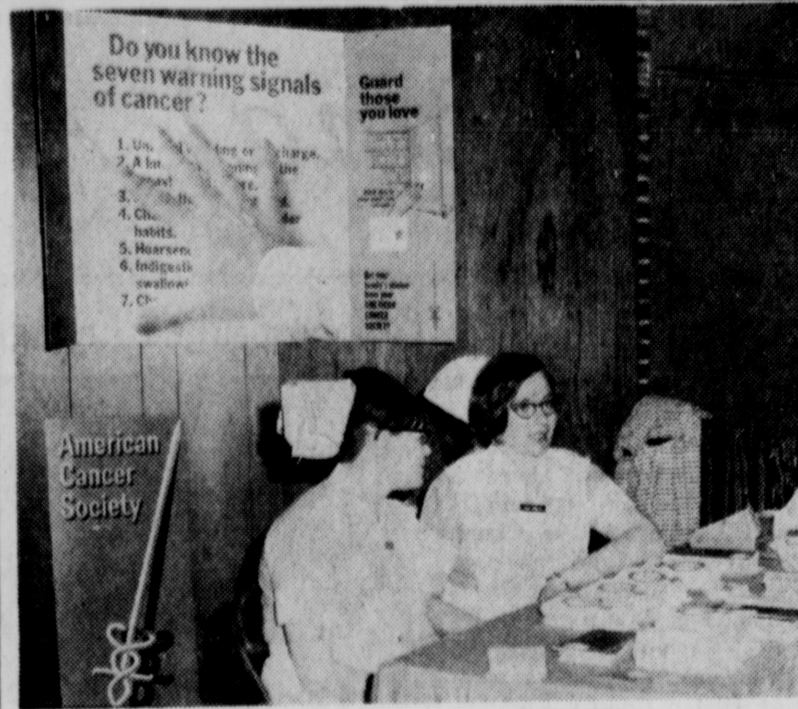

Few issues are pending between the United States and Belgium. More problems may be raised in the vice president's talk with Walter Hallstein, president of the European Common Market Executive, than in his meeting with Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel.

Humphrey had been scheduled to stay 24 hours in Brussels but Belgian officials said he added a day to his visit for a rest.

As Humphrey left Orly Airfield in Paris, about 250 youths waved banners, scattered leaflets and shouted for peace in Vietnam in a renewal of anti-American demonstrations called by the French Communist party.

Police confined the youths to a parking lot and rooftop terraces several hundred yards from the vice president.

Shouts of "Johnson free Vietnam!" and "U.S. murderers!" came from the mob.

Overlook Plans Dinner and Film

The Membership and Evangelism Commission of Overlook Methodist Church has scheduled a roast beef dinner and fellowship evening for members and friends of the church, aged 18 and over, at the Wittenberg Sportsman's Club at 6 p. m., Saturday, April 15.

Entertainment will include the film "Flight to Israel" through courtesy of Greenwald's Travel Service. Future plans for the group will be discussed. Tickets for the family style meal may be reserved by calling Harry Jopp or Charles Newcomb.

Survey Reveals

It was reported the Planning Board had held public meetings relative to a junk yard ordinance. Three licenses have been issued to operate. They were issued to Arthur Buck at Eddyville, Fred Perry at East Kingston and Frank Anderson at Kake Katrine.

Reporting for the building inspector, Supervisor Musialkiewicz said eight permits had been issued. Six of the permits were for construction and two for demolition of unused structures. One application was denied since the specifications did not meet the State Building Code. Anyone desiring to build in the town may contact the town clerk or Building Inspector Joseph Oberdorfer of Rye.

To Receive $1,612.13

It was reported the Whittier Sewer District will receive $1,612.13 from the State Department of Health for operation and maintenance. This is the second year a contribution has been received.

Expansion of the Ulster Water District was discussed and proper painting of the new tank to comply with aerial requirements was explained. The proposed sewage program for the town was also a subject for discussion. The clerk will seek from K. Frazier further information on the new pump house and progress on the sewage district in order that it may get underway.

A request for a light on Heather Lane in the Whittier Light District was discussed and an inspection will be made of the site and a report will be forthcoming.

A letter from residents of Otis Street was received, complaining on the condition of the street, dust, mud, and noise from trucks in the early hours of the morning. On recommendation of the town superintendent a full stop sign will be erected on Otis Street at the entry to Harwicke Street. It was also recommended by the town superintendent that Otis Street be posted for a 10-ton limit after legal notice has been issued.

Receive Complaint

A complaint was received from Stanley Benjamin of damage from a broken water main at the new Clifford Miller School. It was referred to the town attorney.

A group of residents on City View Terrace, represented by Frank Modica, requested a fence be erected on Old Wood Road where a steep embankment presents a dangerous condition to children. Supervisor Musialkiewicz authorized the State Department of Public Works be contacted and ascertain if a proper fence can be erected.

A communication was received from Clark's Electronics, Inc., in regard to extension of TV reception to the Halcovon Park area. He requested permission to erect poles. The application was tabled for more information. A request to have the Clark company extend TV service to the Whittier Park area was also tabled for more information and clarification through the town attorney.

Faces Driving Charge

Ronald Gedney, 30, of Lake Katrine, was arrested at 4 a. m. today by State Trooper James Fitzgerald on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was held in $200 bail pending a hearing later before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedje, Town of Ulster. Trooper Fred Cooper said the violation allegedly took place on Leggs Mill Road.

Room at the Top

NEW YORK (AP) — Those so-called "old myths" that have kept women from top management are slowly dying, according to one official of the U. S. Department of Labor. Unfortunately, she says they aren't dying fast enough.

May Keyserling, director of the Labor Department's Women's Bureau, said Friday: "Change is in the making, but we've got to get rid of the old myths which deprive us of talent needed in the economy."

At Gov. Clinton Say Demolition Of Sharpe Manse Opens Pool Idea

Demolition had barely begun this week on the three-story General George Henry Sharpe residence, known for years as the Governor Clinton Annex, when reports began circulating that the ancient landmark was being razed to make way for a swimming pool for the hotel.

"Only a very remote possibility," said Paul Coon, manager of the hotel, today, in reference to any proposed plans for pool and patio facilities for guests, both permanent and transient, who check into the local hotel, owned by the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation and managed by Waytner Inns.

Clear, cool, sparkling waters and resilient diving boards may have been one of the ideas lurking in the background of demolition plans—but so was the need to enlarge space available for parking facilities.

Coon said the Sharpe residence is bowing to the bulldozer and crane for the usual reasons of age and deterioration. One bathroom floor had caved in and the wiring was in condition of such decay that it posed a possible fire hazard—but only possible since a sprinkler system was in use.

In addition, when the building had been moved almost 40 years ago from its corner location to make room for the new hotel, it suffered constructionwise at the joints. Any sturdiness it once possessed had lessened over the years and fissures, cracks and crevices made it necessary to evacuate guests some time ago, although no one involved ever felt there was any danger of its falling.

Some Beams Split

The basement, although dry, and the stairs were beginning to go and at least one six by six beam had split through and other major joints and beams were in bad shape, bringing the worry that hidden beams might be in worse condition.

Coon says plans call for filling in and leveling off the basement which will be left after demolition in order to keep the area safe for children who wander to play in the vicinity. This will mean the foundation will be left untouched and he grants it would make a good starting point for a pool since the foundation would already be dug and any necessary excavation would be less costly on the basis that a beginning had already been made.

Nevertheless, says the hotel's manager, if we should consider the possibility of putting in a pool, it would not be done for this summer. The cleared area, he says, "will sit there for at least a year," and perhaps be used for parking, not only now but in the long-range future.

"If a pool is the idea, however, hence it would not necessarily rise on the spot vacated by the Sharpe residence. Some people are already of the opinion that the back lawn of the Governor Clinton would be a far better location for the pleasures of a swimming public than the General's old basement which—readers will recall from the above paragraphs—is still dry."

Po'keepsie IBM Head to Discuss Manager's Role

The manager's need to delegate will be discussed at a meeting being sponsored by the Society for Advancement of Management at 7 p. m., Wednesday, in Hyde Park's Kitchen Restaurant. Representatives from civic, will attend.

Ramond F. Boedecker, Poughkeepsie IBM assistant plant general manager, will speak on educational and business concerns in the Mid-Hudson Valley "Delegation and the Place in Management" at the session. He is a member of the Community Mixed Chorus; the Salvation Army Advisory Board; the Board of Directors at Vassar Hospital; the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and is vice president of the Dutchess County Area Community Chest.

Alfred Hanson, managing director of the Mid-Hudson Work shop for the Disabled, Poughkeepsie, is in charge for the meeting.

Postmen Want Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — That postman who approaches your door in the near future may not be carrying mail.

Vice President James H. Rademacher of the National Association of Letter Carriers says the postman may be seeking public support of a substantial pay raise for postal employees.

Rademacher said Friday President Johnson's proposed 4.5 per cent pay hike "is totally inadequate" and added that if necessary, "postmen will march on their own time back around their routes and get petitions from everyone in this country to elevate their standard of living."

Builds Own Mt.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — "We didn't have a real view and we all love the mountains," says Don Lambert. So in the backyard of the Lambert family home he built Mt. Flora — 5½ feet tall at the peak, containing 70 yards of tonsil and covered by eight or varieties of ground cover plus dwarf trees.

Not Cold Enough

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Farmers in this area say recent winters weren't cold enough. "It takes three nights in a row of 35-below-zero temperature to kill the evsny moth," they say, "and these warm winters never get down to that level for long."

Local Death Record

Ral Alonzo Davis, infant son of Lester S. and Loretta Cole Davis, Olivebridge, died Friday at Kingston Hospital. He was born April 3, 1967. Survivors include maternal grandparents, Starr and Harry Cole, Kingston; paternal grandparents, Viva and Alonzo Davis, Olivebridge; and numerous aunts, uncles and cousins. Graveside services will be conducted Sunday 2 p. m. in the Tongore Cemetery, Olivebridge. Arrangements for the funeral were made through Lasher Funeral Home, Woodstock.

Mrs. Leona Shultis

Funeral services for Mrs. Leona Shultis, 1711 Lauderdale Manor Drive, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who died Monday following a lengthy illness, were held Friday 2 p. m. from Lasher Funeral Home, Woodstock. The Rev. James W. Cook, pastor of Overlook Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. William Peckham, Woodstock, officiated. During the repast many friends and relatives called and many floral tributes were received. Thursday evening the Rev. Cook called at the funeral home and led those assembled in prayer. Burial was in Woodstock Cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Katcher

Mrs. Elizabeth Katcher, 72, of 179 Washington Avenue died Friday following a long illness. A native of Connecticut, she was a former resident of Ellenville before coming to Kingston. She and her late husband, Harry Katcher, operated a grocery store on Washington Avenue and Marius Street until his death in 1959. Surviving are two children, Mrs. Irving (Jewel) Rudd of Hollywood, Fla., and Commander Martin J. Katcher, USN, of Silver Spring, Md.; a sister, Mrs. David (Beatrice) Adler, of 118 Downs Street, Kingston. Six grandchildren and several nieces and nephews survive. Funeral services will be held from Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, on Monday at 11 a. m. Rabbi Harry Schechter of Congregation Ahavath Israel will officiate. Burial in Beth Israel Cemetery, Woodbridge, N. J. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Investigate Marijuana

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Narcotics Bureau says the growing use of marijuana is one reason its 1967 budget request is $290,000 more than appropriated for fiscal 1966.

County 4-H Club Tours Farm; OKs Change of Name

Dwight Miller, in charge of show cattle at Rally Farms in Millbrook, Dutchess County, spoke on "Fitting, Feeding and Management" during a tour of the farm by members of the Ulster County 4-H Beef Cattle Club on Saturday.

He also discussed problems associated with the raising of beef cattle for a 4-H project.

During a brief business meeting after a tour of the farm, club membership voted to change the name of the unit to Ulster T-Bones.

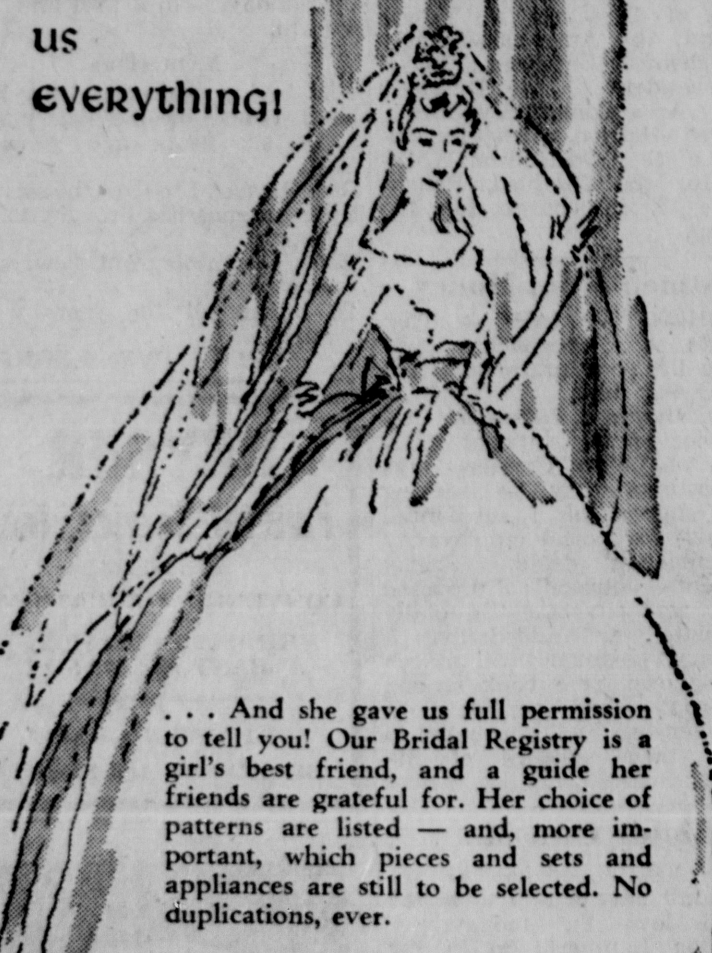

Arranging the trip for club members were Club Leader John Schreiber, business manager, Harold Widmark and County 4-H Leader Carlton Conklin. The club's next meeting will be held later this month, with the date to be announced later. Planning calls for a visit to the Beef Cattle Sale to be held in Chatham at that meeting.

It has been estimated that the average acre of sugar beets yields 3,500 pounds of granulated sugar.

UCCC Sponsored Concert Tonight; Tickets at Door

Because of the heavy demand, tickets for the concert tonight (April 8) by Jay and the Americans will be sold at the door of the Kate Walton Fieldhouse, Kingston, Les Bowers said today. He is vice-president of the Student Government Organization at Ulster County Community College which is sponsoring the concert.

The concert, which will begin at 8:30 p.m., by Jay and the Americans will highlight the Spring Weekend at the College. "Because this will be the first appearance by Jay and the Americans in the Hudson Valley and because of the widespread interest in the group," Mr. Bowers said, "we decided to open up the concert to the public as well as college students."

Among the top records recorded by Jay and the Americans are "She Cried" and "Cara Mia."

The Kate Walton Fieldhouse is adjacent to Kingston High School.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

This is for both men and women.

All of you who wash those famous new synthetic tricot shirts, take heed and listen to what I learned this weekend while experimenting with my husband's shirt.

True, the collar sometimes has a dirt line, but it washes away beautifully without using a brush.

Tricot material has a rib. After soaking the shirt for a few minutes in some detergent water, pick it up by the collar, holding, then ends, one in each hand. Turn the collar sideways and rub the material itself crosswise over that soil line.

After you use the right hand then try the left. You can get all across the collar this way. It is so simple that it is unbelievable.

... Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After checking the stubs of your bank book when all the checks are in, clip the stubs together with a paper clip (or hair clip), and you know exactly where to start checking your next statement.

... A Reader

Dear Heloise:

I put frozen fruit in baby food jars when I pack my children's school lunches.

By noon the fruits are thawed, and if they have a piece of cake in a sandwich box — presto — fruit shortcake.

Naturally, everybody envies them.

... Mrs. R. Marek

Dear Heloise:

Here is a beauty tip.

Put two tablespoons of baking soda in the bathtub and fill with hot water.

Soak and relax in it for ten minutes, then bathe as usual. Results — soft skin and a relaxed feeling.

Area Realtors Attend Meeting At Bear Mountain

More than 200 realtors from a seven-county area composing the lower Hudson region, New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, attended the organization's regional sales conference Wednesday at Bear Mountain Inn, Bear Mountain.

Members of eight local Board of Realtors in the area attended the day-long session, featuring four speakers who addressed the gathering on various aspects of real estate sales.

The boards represented were: Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Sullivan, Westchester and Putnam Counties Boards of Realtors and the Newburgh Board of Realtors.

John Noto, regional vice president of the association, presided over the conference. Edward O. Sullivan Jr., of Westchester County, was toastmaster during the luncheon.

The main speaker was Cavett Robert, a Phoenix, Ariz., attorney, one of the nation's foremost sales consultants, who spoke on the topic, "Anatomy of a Sale."

Other speakers were: Daniel C. Hanrahan, realtor from Elizabeth, N. J., who spoke on "Opportunities for Real Estate Brokers in the Executive Transfer Program;" Allan D. Moore, a Rochester realtor, who spoke on "Are You a Professional?"; and Arthur S. Bettigole, a long Island realtor, who spoke on "How To Put Profit in Your Office Operation."

West German Group Will Give Concert On 19th; Po'keepsie

The Cologne Accordion Orchestra of West Germany, an ensemble of 25 artists under the direction of Hans Gengler, will appear in concert at the Community Methodist Church, New Hackensack Road, Poughkeepsie, on Wednesday, April 19, at 8 p. m.

The concert, under the sponsorship of the Cliff Scholl Accordion Studios of Poughkeepsie, Kingston and Rhinebeck, is the only one scheduled in this area during a two-week tour of the eastern states.

This is the first American visit of the accordionists from the Rhineland.

Famous throughout European concert halls and radio and TV, the group has won a number of awards for outstanding performance, including a cup presented by the late King Leopold of Belgium and prizes at the European Music Festival in Strasbourg.

Included in the Cologne orchestra's concert repertoire will be Sibelius' "Finlandia," Josef Rixner's "Bagatelle Overture," Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," Tchaikovsky's "Capriccio Italien" and original compositions. Complementing the accordion instrumentation will be electronic, cembale and percussion.

The April 19 concert in Poughkeepsie is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Yancey Retains Masters Lead, Nicklaus Eliminated

'Frisco, Hawks Clash Tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, who hit a snag in the third game of their Western Division National Basketball Association playoffs with the St. Louis Hawks, hope their fast break will carry them right into the championship finals.

The key to Warrior success, says their top scorer Rick Barry, is running.

"We'll have to do more running to win Saturday," he said. San Francisco won the first two games of the playoff 117-118 and 143-136 before they were derailed Wednesday 115-109 by the Hawks.

Barry scored 38 and 47 points, respectively, in the first two games and 31 here when the Hawks won.

The teams will resume the battle here tonight in the best-of-7 series. They move back to San Francisco Monday for the fifth game.

The winner in the West will play either Philadelphia or Boston in the NBA's finals. Philadelphia has won three straight and is only a game away from taking the Eastern playoff and ending Boston's string of championships at eight.

The two Eastern division teams meet Sunday afternoon in Boston in a televised game.

Bill Sharman, San Francisco coach, says he plans no changes for Saturday's game. He said Richie Guerin the Hawks' player-coach, hasn't tried anything different in the playoffs, and he doesn't expect him to.

Gay Brewer Second; Palmer Is Six Back

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gary Player said flatly that he was going to win it. Arnold Palmer said he is still very much in contention. Bert Yancey said he was going to hang on to his lead.

Jack Nicklaus said goodbye. Nicklaus, the 210-pound Ohio strongboy who set the Masters record with a 271 two years ago, set another — in reverse — Friday when he failed to make the cut for the last two rounds of the 31st Masters Golf Tournament.

Off Ryder Cup Team
His shocking 79, with nine bogeys, gave him 151 for two rounds over the lush, sweltering Augusta National Course, represented one of the great collapses in golfing history and eliminated his last chance of making the Ryder Cup team.

"Everything I did was wrong," Nicklaus said after he became the first defending champion who failed to make the cut.

"But I've had pretty good luck here before," said the man who was shooting for an unprecedented third straight Masters' title. "Maybe it's about time I started having some bad luck."

Yancey, the former West Pointer who led by three strokes the first day, said he had some bad luck, too.

"I was playing well enough to increase my lead, not decrease it," he said after an erratic round of five pars, six birdies and seven bogeys.

Leads by One
That gave him a 73 for 140 and a one stroke lead over former PGA champion Bobby Nichols, Gay Brewer, 47-year-old, two-time U.S. Open champion Julius Boros and 22-year-old English pro, Tony Jacklin.

George Archer, who had Friday's best round at 67, was alone at 142, while Tommy Aaron and Doug Ford were bracketed at 143.

Player, the little South African who won the Masters in 1961, is at 144 along with Paul Harney, Australian Bruce Devlin and current U.S. Open champ Billy Casper.

There were 13 sub-par rounds Friday, accentuating the troubles encountered by Yancey, Palmer and Nicklaus.

In all, 55 players made the cut for the last two rounds, which will be televised nationally (CBS-TV) starting at 5 p.m. EST today and at 4 p.m. EST Sunday.

KEEPING THE TRADITION of the Masters Golf Tournament, the two oldest invitees—Jack Hutchinson, 82, in foreground, and Freddie McLeod, 84, opened the prestigious event at Augusta, Ga. The octogenarians, however, are not official entries in the tournament. (NEA Telephoto)

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Build a better mousetrap and . . . you know the rest. Invite George Stuetzle and his Pine Plains Bombardiers to your basketball tournament and you can't miss—at the boxoffice. The Poughkeepsie Y-Mid Hudson Valley tournament has just released attendance figures for the 1967 renewal—4500 for six nights, or a cool 750 per night. By modern standards these are remarkable figures for independent basketball.

Without Stuetzle's paid mercenaries, it is doubtful if the box-office would have been anywhere near as attractive. As he does each year, Stuetzle recruits the hottest available prospects of the moment collegiate or professional.

His prize offering this year was Wieslosuknia, a home grown product who starred at Roosevelt High in Dutchess, before going on to a sensational career at University of Connecticut where he gained All-America recognition. He added York Laresse, former NBAer with the Philly Warriors and Bill Telasky, ex-George Washington, who walked off with MVP honors.

IF YOU HAVE EVER SEEN MR. STUETZLE in person, you'll admit he is the least likely looking basketball promoter in the land. A stained glass window designer by trade, his great passion in life is assembling all star teams at tournament time.

Stuetzle's Bombardiers have been missing from the Kingston Basketball Tournament scene for several years. Recreation superintendent Andy Murphy, who operates the KBT, long ago made Stuetzle persona non grata in Kingston.

Murphy insists on having Kingston High school players compete under commercial sponsorship in the annual renewal. Long ago he suspected that Stuetzle was rewarding high powered talent with something more negotiable than stained glass windows.

STUETZLE HAS NEVER MADE ANY BONES about the fact he pays his ball players in cold cash. Since this is the case, Murphy is reluctant to jeopardize the amateur status of the KHS players by pitting them against the Bombardiers. So the Bombardiers don't play in the KBT anymore and Kingston fans are deprived of a chance to see Stuetzle's colorful array.

This situation raises a few questions: Is it necessary to have the high school team in the tournament every year? Is there any guarantee that other teams have not paid players to compete in the KBT? Who can say what players have or have not received money in the past. And finally, we say, when the regular high school season is over that should be it for athletes who still have eligibility ahead of them.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE OFFICIALS and managers are making it clear in 1967 they expect some kind of assistance from the Recreation department . . . like two paid umpires for each game . . . Negotiations are said to be under way between the league and department. There is nothing revolutionary in the request. At Poughkeepsie, the rec department furnished two paid umpires for no less than 11 leagues—3 Little Leagues, 3 slow pitch softball, one major softball, junior baseball, minor league and senior league. They go a step further by training their own umpires to make sure a supply is always available. Fred Davi and his associates have struggled long enough to keep the city league alive. They need help—this year.

WE HOPE THOSE INTERESTED LOCAL CITIZENS make their pitch loud and clear when they confront the Board of Education on the subject of a ski varsity at Kingston High next season . . . Disturbing rumors cropping up adult apathy in area Little Leagues. It's an old story not likely to be corrected unless drastic action is taken, like telling the parents if we can't have your support why bother with a league . . . If you think the pro golf tour is rough, ponder this: Jim Stefanchik, Joliet, Ill. bowler averaged 238 for 40 games (with 37 consecutive 200's) to qualify for the finals of the $100,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions where he beat Don Johnson in a leadoff for first prize of $25,000.

We're rooting for the 76ers to complete their sweep of the Celtics Sunday then go on to their first NBA championship. Just to prove that Wilt Chamberlain is the best all-around player in the game . . . How about thousands paying $5 a seat in Chicago to watch Bruno Sammartino "defeat" TNT Morgan in two straight falls within seven minutes for the World championship. To each his own, we say.

Korol-Rose Win In JCC Bridge
Sheila Korol, Hurley and Al Rose, Kingston, captured the Jewish Community Center Mixed Pair club championship with 61 per cent.

Arthur and Iris Weinstein, Accord, were second with 56 per cent. Other leaders were Tillie Sheinvoil and Nathan Katatsky, Kingston, 55 per cent; Jim and Linda Cavin, Kingston, 54 per cent and Eleanor Hogan, Hurley and Robert Shea, Poughkeepsie, 53 per cent.

Trophies will be presented April 16 at the master point game. A fractional point game will be held Sunday at 7 o'clock. Area bridge players are welcome.

Airmen Reach Cage Semi-Finals With 101-89 Win

Top seeded Stewart Air Force Base advanced to the semi-finals of the 14th annual Kingston Basketball tournament with a 101-89 win over Felicello Pipers of Marlboro last night at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Falcons will oppose Whitman Electric of Kingston, a forfeit winner over the South Fallsburg All-Stars, in an 8:45 game Sunday night. This is a rematch of their recent contest in the Hudson Valley Tournament, where Stewart nipped the locals by a point, 51-50.

In Sunday's opening semi-final contest, Donnie Van's which nipped Stone Ridge, 82-80, in the first round, will tangle with DeMico Motors, 96-72 winner over Wiley's of Hyde Park.

Close First Half
Stewart, a third place finisher in the Poughkeepsie tournament and only a one point loser to Pine Plains, had a tough struggle with the Pipers. In fact, it took a 33-22 fourth quarter surge to put this one out of reach.

The Airmen, who have posted a record against top flight competition, had their starting five in double figures. Four of the Pipers had good scoring nights but they couldn't overcome the overall balance of the winners.

South Fallsburg, which lost to Pine Plains two nights before in Poughkeepsie, failed to show for the second game. Whitman had its team on the floor, ready for action.

In first round games on Thursday, Bruce Gilligan and Leon Hanna had 21 points each for Donnie Van's. Mike Derrenbacher was the hero. He made two foul shots with four seconds remaining to break an 80-80 deadlock.

DeMico Motors had 29 points from Frank Rosselli and 21 from Joe Uhl in beating Wiley's. The locals had only a three point lead at the interim but outscored the Hyde Park Club, 57-36, in the third and fourth quarters.

Winners of Sunday's games will meet at 8:45 Tuesday for the championship. Losers will battle at 7:30 for consolation honors.

Lake Mohonk Sets Tennis Tournaments

Lake Mohonk Tennis Club has announced dates for its two annual invitation tournaments.

The men's and women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles event is scheduled for June 19-24. The tournament is for players of all ages.

The Sept. 13-17 event includes men's and women's singles; men's and mixed doubles; one tournament for seniors only. Men born before 1923 and women before 1928 may play in senior events in 1967.

Invitations will be mailed six to seven weeks before each event. The United States Lawn Tennis Association has sanctioned both tournaments.

Sluggers Find Range In Exhibition Tilts

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been two weeks since Easter but the bunny . . . or rather the rabbit . . . is still around, propelling baseballs over fences with amazing regularity.

There were 21 home runs hit in five exhibition games Friday, including a pair by two collegiate sluggers against San Francisco ace Juan Marichal. The rabbit ball was never livelier.

Homers accounted for all of the runs in Atlanta's 4-3 11-inning victory over Minnesota and Philadelphia's 8-7 triumph over Pittsburgh. Those two games provided 16 of the day's long shots.

Hank Aaron's second homer of the night won the game for the Braves. He had tied the score in the bottom of the ninth with his first.

In Friday's other games, San Francisco defeated the University of Santa Clara 7-3, Cincinnati downed Cleveland 6-3 and Houston shaded the New York Yankees 1-0. The game between the Chicago White Sox and Chicago Cubs at Oklahoma City was rained out.

Marichal, the Giants' $100,000 right-hander went seven innings in a final tuneup for Tuesday's opening day assignment against the Cardinals and was tagged for homers by Santa Clara's Al Strange and Rod Austin.

Jim Davenport, bidding for San Francisco's shortest job, clubbed a three-run homer and a single, leading the Giants' attack.

Pete Rose and Dick Simpson hammered homers for the Reds with Simpson's a three-run shot in the second inning. Both blows came off Cleveland's Jack Kralick.

Larry Dierker worked several scoreless innings for Houston against the Yankees. The Astros pushed across the game's only run in the third inning.

Kickers on Road
Kingston Sport Club Kickers are scheduled at White Plains Sunday in the German-American Soccer Association. Other pairings: Stamford at American Czech, Kolsman at Bridgeport, Yonkers at West New York and Bavarian at Lithuanian.

Major Leagues Start
Washington, Cincinnati Open Season

Monday Against Yankees And Dodgers

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

A rash of major trades, a few retirements and a smattering of injuries add up to a talent shuffle of about 35 per cent from 1966's opening line-ups when the big leagues start the baseball season Monday and Tuesday.

Washington will jump the gun, as usual, with its special Presidential opener with President Lyndon Johnson has been invited to throw out the first ball. LBJ or his sub will be working on a four-year Senator losing streak.

The New York Yankees who ousted the Senators from their traditional home in last place, will provide the opposition Monday afternoon at D.C. Stadium. Among the non-political events will be the unveiling of Mickey Mantle as the Yankee first baseman.

Cincinnati also opens at home Monday, a special privilege granted to the Reds, presumably in the days of Abner Doubleday. The usual sellout crowd at Crosley Field will get a first look at Manager Dave Bristol's new triple shift line-up with Pete Rose in left, Deron Johnson at third and Tommy Helms at second.

No Koufax or Wills
The Cincinnati fans also will be the first to view the latest Los Angeles Dodger mixture, without Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills.

Rookie Gene Michael, obtained from Pittsburgh in the Wills deal, will play shortstop and Bob Bailey, another ex-Pitts, from the same transaction will be in left. Wes Parker, the first baseman, will be in center because of Willie Davis' sprained ankle (not the sun) and Ron Fairly, the right fielder, will play first. Ron Hunt, the former Met, will be on second.

That leaves catcher John Roseboro and third baseman Jim Lefebvre (Nate Oliver opened at second last year)

Jim Dougherty's 686 Paces Loop

Jim Dougherty turned in a hat trick in the Mid City Men's League, slamming 224, 222 and 240 for 686. He carried a 167 average into the action. Bob Stark had 247-613.

Qualifiers included LeRoy Singleton 212-545, Wilder Dawson 222-573, Robert Finley 201-592, Ben Durr 236-569.

Preview: Tijuana Brass Play Wonderful Music for Special April 24

By ISOBEL ASHE
HOLLYWOOD

Have you, in the past, looked forward to a particular television special and then felt a great let-down when it was over?

Well, here's an opportunity to anticipate to your heart's desire: the colorcast of the special is by CBS, Monday, April 24, 9-10 p. m. Eastern time, and it's almost a certainty you'll agree with those who have had an advance preview: SOME specials are just that—truly special.

Titled "Singer Presents Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass," it is a very special special for several reasons:

It marks the first time Alpert and his group have had an entire hour-long show to themselves.

It required the teamwork of 100 people working for 18 days to film and tape at 11 different locations in southern California.

It makes no frustrated attempts at humor. All it does is show the Tijuana Brass, one of the most popular groups in the music world, doing what they do best: making great music.

And you don't often find that on television in prime time these days.

The gentlemen behind the scenes who are responsible for the show are Gary Smith and Dwight Hemion. They are co-producers, Hemion directed the show.

They're typical of the new breed of television producers: young, energetic, with bright, nonstereotyped ideas.

Seated in a Mexican-themed restaurant in Los Angeles' Olvera Street, one of the locations where the show was done, Smith, Hemion and Alpert discussed the background of how they decided on the format for the special.

Recalled Smith: "We wanted a new concept for the show. We knew a studio show would be wrong. We wanted the visual excitement of going out. But we didn't want a show about locations. Instead, we wanted—and I think we're getting—a show WITH locations and ideas."

Among the locations, in addition to Olvera Street: the bull ring in Tijuana, Mexico; the racetrack in Caliente, Mexico; Presidio Park in San Diego; Disneyland; a sound stage and the exterior of the movie studio recently purchased by Alpert (originally built by Charlie Chaplin, in the heart of Hollywood); three different beach locations north of Santa Monica, and the Aragon Ballroom at the Santa Monica pier which for a couple of night's regained a trace of its former aura of glamor. It is now a roller-skating rink.

"We had a 12-day production schedule," continued Smith, "and a group of us spent six days prior to that preparing for the various locations."

A staggering statistic: when production was completed, they had a total of 30 hours of tape and film which had to be edited down to the 53 minutes which make up an hour show.

For the budget-minded, Hemion pointed out: "We can return the tape for a refund, however, because it can be erased and used over again."

Even the Chamber of Commerce will admit that southern California weather can be a bit chancey in February and March. Since the show was done almost entirely outdoors, Hemion and Smith worked the entire production time with their fingers crossed. They couldn't get rain insurance.

If you study the vital statistics for weather two months ago in the Los Angeles area, you'll discover it was the hottest and already-existing records.

"Just lucky, I guess," said Alpert, doing justice to the typically Mexican dish the waiter placed before him—a taco, refried beans, chile rilleno and an enchilada.

"Sometimes this seems almost as everyday a food to me as chicken soup," he grinned. And he wouldn't admit to occasionally getting tired of Mexican food, since he is probably the most outstanding nonresident hero of Tijuana, and has definitely done more to put the border town on the map than any other individual in history.

"Yes, Herb's the national hero of Tijuana," associate producer Caroline Raskin said as she came over to the table to check something in the script. "Did he tell you about the night he was eating dinner down there with the mayor, Pancho Lopez Gutierrez? A fan came up to get an autograph from Herbie and then turned to the mayor and asked: 'Are you in the band, too?'"

(Diplomatic relations were not strained as a result of the encounter, however. A recent housewarming gift to the Alperths from the mayor for their new Beverly Hills home was a stuffed bullhead now occupying a place of honor on a den wall.)

Despite the hectic schedule and long hours which accompanies the production of any television special, Alpert appeared rested and relaxed.

CHANNEL CHATTER

Reminiscing about his role as Lt. Jacoby in the Peter Gunn TV series Herschel Bernardi, now on Broadway in "Fiddler on the Roof," said: "The fun of it was creating it. Until Jacoby, there hadn't been a policeman who wasn't a dope or a hard-nose and we just built him as we went along."

Well, anyway, the last show for The Fugitive has been filmed, even viewers won't get to see it for some months—or maybe more.

At this moment, it is not really known whether or not the series will be back next season. It still has a good rating. Contractually, there is no obligation to notify anyone about next season until May 15. However

It had become a running gag with the production crew that when they wanted to get to their beds after 12 or 14 hours of work, Alpert and his musicians were quite content to keep on playing.

"It's fun. I don't know that I'd want a weekly television show just for the sake of being on television regularly. I'd want a unique format, but I don't plan that far ahead. I think it's easy for a musician to become an actor, because when you're playing music on a bandstand, you're acting in a certain way."

Alpert says that acting lessons some years ago with noted actor-coach Jeff Corey had made this assignment somewhat easier, but at present he hasn't any intention of putting down his collection of trumpets to make words, rather than music.

Alpert had mentioned a year ago that he was still using the same trumpet he'd carried in the University of Southern California band as a student, and then later with the Army stationed in San Francisco.

"Yeh, I still have it and I still use it. It has, shall we say—ripened. Not that I have a particular hang-up for it. I've got seven or eight others and if I lost this one, I could switch. But years of blowing into the same one—it's like a favorite pipe," he explained.

Musicians normally deplore hitting the road and living out of suitcases. Not the Alpert group.

"We do it the easy way. We charter a Martin 404 and take people to take care of everything. We carry our own sound system and have a crew of six: two engineers, a wardrobe man, a lighting-effects man and a band boy to handle the instruments.

renewals are usually made the first week in April, and so far The Fugitive has not been renewed.

So they have rushed filming of a two-parter which resolves all David Janssen's problems. If the series is renewed, they will hold the shows and run them at the end, whenever that may be. If it isn't renewed, they will run as the show's final two episodes at the end of the rerun season.

No music. It's all in our heads. We've only been traveling for the past two years, so maybe we haven't had time to get tired of it yet."

(Possibly, the tremendous receptions and monies they get do a bit to assuage any weariness that might creep into the bones of the Tijuana Brass.)

Since "Tijuana Brass" is an umbrella which casts a shadow of anonymity over members of the group which makes such sparkling music, it might be fun to know just who is making that wonderful melody right in your home:

Tonni Kalash is on trumpet. It's Bob Edmondson with the trombone. Lou Pagani plays piano. Nick Ceroli is on drums. The guitar men are Pat Sanatore and John Pagano.

And if you don't recognize the tall, slim fellow holding the trumpet, you just flunked music appreciation, 1967 style.

TV Questions & Answers

MONKEES SEE—We understand that our favorite show, The Monkees, has a chance of being cancelled. Would you please help us and tell us if there is anything we can do to keep it on?—D. McD. Kingston, N.Y.

Consider your problem solved. The Monkees will be back next year, same time, same station.

MONKEES HEAR—If the Monkees didn't know how to play their instruments at the beginning of the series how did they get the show?—J.N. St. Paul, Minn.

It is no secret that many very popular singing groups today can neither sing nor play their instruments. They can plunk their instruments, bang their cymbals and make odd sounding vocal gesticulations, none of which should be misconstrued as vocal or musical arts. The Screen Gems executives who conceived the idea of The Monkees were much aware of this fact. Further, they knew that the most popular groups were those with the kookiest personalities. Therefore they auditioned for four boys with separate and distinct personalities and physical characteristics whose basic common denominator would be their kookiness. Singing and instrumental abilities did not enter into it at all.

MONKEES DO—Since the Monkees are something special, why don't they do a special on television?—K. D., Miami, Fla.

It would seem that the producers of specials do not consider the Monkees to be all that special or they would have done just that long ago.

NEWTON—Didn't Art Carney have another partner on television before Jackie Gleason?—T. D.

Portland, Oregon. Art did appear on another series before Gleason with Morey Amsterdam. The setting was a night club with Amsterdam as a comedian and Carney as Newton the waiter who was forever bumping into Morey's act.

MUSICAL McCALLUM—I understand David McCallum is a musician. What instrument or instruments does he play?—D. W., Great Falls, Mont.

David studied the oboe as a child. In case you're not familiar with this clarinet-type symphonic instrument, Danny Kaye once described it in song as "an ill wind that no one blows good," which is why David might have switched to acting. However, he still keeps busy as a musician, and has conducted and composed songs for a pair of Capitol Records albums.

MMM—I heard John Wayne jokingly referred to as the three Ms of the movies during a radio program, but they didn't say why. Does it have anything to do with the 3M company or what?—P. F., Miami Fla.

That's an inside gag with some of Wayne's closer friends and it refers to his real name which is Marion Michael Morrison.

POLISH POWERS—I understand Stefanie Powers is Polish. Can you tell me something of her background?—F. G., Reading, Pa.

Stefanie was born in Hollywood U.S.A. of Polish parents. Her real name is Stefania Zofia Federkiewicz.

Jazz clarinetist Pete Fountain appears on Bell Telephone Hour's "The Sounds and Sights of New Orleans," on Sunday, April 9, at 6:30 p. m. over NBC-TV.

Bell Telephone Sunday Special

The Bell Telephone Hour presents "The Sounds and Sights of New Orleans," on Sunday, April 9, at 6:30 p. m. over NBC-TV. Features in the special color presentation are jazz clarinetist Pete Fountain, trumpet player Al Hirt, Metropolitan Opera soprano Gianna DeAngelo and the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra. A major highlight of this visit to the home of jazz is a musical trip down Bourbon Street where two of the city's world-famous native sons, Al Hirt and Pete Fountain, are appearing.

A Message to Advertisers!

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE
READ THE WANT ADS EVERY DAY!

Among the large audience there's bound to be somebody who wants the things you have to offer. That person is not going to spend time, effort, money or gasoline to find out details of your proposition UNLESS you have worded your message so that it interests him. A few more words may mean a lot more dollars in your pocket . . . remember that when you place your next advertisement.

The next time you call an ad taker to place a Want Ad in the Daily Freeman, stop and consider this. You are about to spend some money for an advertisement and you want to get the utmost in results. To accomplish this your ad should tell ALL the details about the things you are trying to accomplish. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that frequently prevent results . . .

- DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS!
 Many out of town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.
- DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER!
- DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS!
 Avoid them at all costs. They are difficult to answer. It is more convenient to phone.
- DON'T LEAVE HOME ON DAYS OTHERS MIGHT ANSWER YOUR AD!
- DON'T OMIT WORDS THAT WOULD TEND TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF RESPONSES
- DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED!
 Surveys show that many people will not answer an ad unless the price is given.
- DO GIVE YOUR AD SOME THOUGHT BEFORE CALLING!
- DO RUN YOUR AD MORE THAN ONE DAY!
 Not all of our readers are home every day. Just the person who wants what you are offering may not see your ad until the 9th or 10th time it runs.

STATION BREAK

"I played a dumb blonde on TV for awhile. The name of the show? Boy, ya got me!"

LONG-SNOOTED AIRCRAFT depicted here is actually an "in-flight simulator" being developed to duplicate flying motions of large jet aircraft of the future. The one drawn here is equipped with the type of nose that will be on the supersonic transport of the future. Authenticity of the simulator, being developed by Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, is so exact that even the appropriate type of noise that will be heard on the SST is produced in the forward cockpit.

Why We Say--

HE "MUFFED" THE BALL

HAND MUFFS: We use this expression as a term of derision for baseball players who miss catching a ball during a game. It alludes to the time when men dressed up by wearing muffs to keep their hands warm. However, when someone started a fight, they were nearly helpless to defend themselves.

Barbara May Follow Mia in 'Peyton' Exit

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Another defector from "Peyton Place"? Barbara Parkins, who has played Betty Anderson in the nighttime soap opera since its start, indicates that she wants out.

Different Person

The Vancouver (Canada) beauty would be following the example of Mia Farrow, who left the cast to pursue other careers as motion picture actress — she is now in "A Dandy in Aspic" in England — and wife of Frank Sinatra.

"I'd like to leave, too," says Miss Parkins. "but for a different reason."

One of Hollywood's most notable girls-about-town, she has no marriage plans. But she has abundant ambition for her career, and she figures that continuing with "Peyton Place" will not be to her advantage.

"I was very lucky to get the series; it has been good for me," she said. "But now I have been in it for three years. We have made the equivalent of 10 years of television shows — if 'Peyton Place' had been shown once a week in a regular-length season."

Mechanical Now

"That's a lot of film. I've come to the point where I don't want to work every day; I want to travel and see the world. Besides, I have done everything possible with the character of Betty Anderson. Now it becomes mechanical."

Miss Parkins said she hadn't imparted her feelings to the 20th Century-Fox management — "I have an agent for that." If she does seek a release from the series, her cause may be aided by her present assignment; she is on of the pill-addicted wretches in "Valley of the Dolls."

Like Patty Duke, Miss Parkins had to campaign for the role. Lacking an agent at the time, she arranged a meeting with director Mark Robson and producer David Weisbart. They approved of what they saw and asked her to test with eight pages of script the following day.

Sympathetic Monsters

Producer Gene Roddenberry of Star Trek told TV SCOUT that the show can't just go through space all the time, running into two-legged animals. Neither can they just run into monsters. So the solution, at least part of the time, he feels, is to run into sympathetic monsters with human qualities.

One of the "human monsters" recently was played by Janos Prohaska, who earned a salary equal to any guest star. Roddenberry said he earned it, "what with helping create the monster and then pulling all those 47 levers inside."

Next Season's Shows

This is the time of year when the die has been cast about whether shows will be returning next season or not. So, everything being equal, series can afford to take a chance on untried directors. Two got their first breaks recently. Ben Gazzara directed his first Run For Your Life. The Big Valley gave a chance to Joe Mazzuca, the script clerk for the series.

Today's Picks

Wednesday, April 12

9-19 (NBC) — The Danny Thomas Special is titled "Block Party" and is constructed around the old-fashioned idea of people getting together for a party in the street, with guests including Vic Damone, Sammy Davis Jr., Dennis Day, Jane Powell and Richardo Montalban.

10-11 (CBS) — The Danny Kaye Show features Robert Morley as Professor Hornblower teaching Kaye as Jerome Taperman, public speaking. Kaye also pantomimes a goof-up Army recruit and presents The Arbors, a new singing quartet.

10-11 (NBC) — I Spy presents Jim Brown, former pro football great, as a enemy agent who uses his long-time friendship with Scott to gain access to confidential materials.

Dortort Has New Fall Show

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — David Dortort looked tired. He was. He has been in his office until midnight conferring with script writers. It was 1 a. m. before he went to bed. He had told the script writers to sleep in after the night session, but he was back at his office desk at 9 a. m.

"Mrs. Dortort," he announced at the luncheon table, "takes a dim view of my life these days."

Dortort is the producer and creator of NBC-TV's top rated Bonanza. Now he is producing still another hour show, The High Chaparral, coming to television next fall, also on NBC.

A former writer, he is one of the new breed of Hollywood producers spawned by television. There was a day in Hollywood when the most energetic of producers worked four months a year and then collapsed for eight months in Palm Springs or event further away.

But now Bonanza is going into its 9th year of weekly hour shows. For Dortort the addition of High Chaparral to his schedule means the equivalent of producing a two-hour movie every week during the TV season.

Dortort, at 49, may be tried this day but there has been no slowdown in his enthusiasm for the return of Bonanza and the debut of High Chaparral next fall.

The latter will feature another family living in the west, the Arizona territory during the time of the Apache wars, but he says "This is not the same kind of a family. The Cartwrights have a great understanding for each other. This family does not. The men (Lief Erickson, Cameron Mitchell, Sam Slade, Henry Darrow) are as tough as the dry desert and its chaparral."

The secret of Bonanza's success?

"I think it's because we make our stories simple, easily understood and because the audiences like all of our characters to the point where they become emotionally involved with them." For Bonanza's opening show next fall, he is sending case and crew to Hawaii in May for a two-parter to be filmed at the Parker Ranch and elsewhere in the islands.

The pilot of High Chaparral was filmed as a two-hour show, which Dortort hopes NBC will use intact to lead off the series "because this gives us time to introduce our characters, to give the audience the background for future shows."

No Bonanza has ever reached home screens without some re-writing from Dortort and as a former writer he finds this frustrating. "When you are re-writing there is no time for original writing and this I miss."

Mrs. Dortort misses him, too.

VOODOO — What makes Peter Tork of The Monkees stand out so? What makes him so beautiful? — C. U., Duluth, Mich.

You do, child. Only you do.

Schedule Wagner Special April 14

A look behind the scenes at what has been called the greatest achievement in phonograph history will be presented by National Educational Television when it presents "The Golden Ring" Friday, April 14 at 8:30 p. m. on Channel 17.

This ninety-minute special focuses on the recording of Wagner's music-drama "Die Goetterdaemmerung" and shows the musical and technical resources that went into this undertaking, part of a project to record the first complete Ring Cycle — seventeen hours of stereophonic music.

The conductor for "Goetterdaemmerung" is the Hungarian-born Georg Solti, musical director of Covent Garden's Royal Opera House. The soloists include Brigit Nilsson, the greatest Wagnerian soprano of this decade, as Brunnhilde, and Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau as Gunther. Other world-famous artists in the cast are Wolfgang Windgassen, Gottlob Frick, and Claire Watson. The orchestra is the Vienna Philharmonic ("the finest Wagner orchestra in the world" says Maestro Solti) with the State Opera Chorus.

In "The Golden Ring" this cast performs some of the major sequences from "Goetterdaemmerung," including the Immolation scene, Siegfried's Funeral March, and the "Vengeance" trio which ends Act II.

In addition the unique musical performance was captured for all times by the complex techniques of recording. The film shows the people involved in this exacting profession, such as John Culshaw, producer of the "Goetterdaemmerung" record and the entire Ring Cycle. A 41-year-old Englishman, he received the Order of the British Empire for his contribution to this recording feat.

Culshaw's insistence on the right cast, the right interpretation, and the right instruments (he even had the long-lost steer horns rebuilt) culminated in what critics have called "a representation of Wagner unequalled on any stage" and "a staggering esthetic and technical triumph."

To convey the scope of this achievement, cameras were on hand for the final eight days of the recording of "Goetterdaemmerung." A mobile television unit moved into the Sofiensaal in Vienna—a ballroom which has been converted into a studio — where engineers had built a special new console. Rehearsals, playbacks and recording sessions were televised every day, also interviews with the principal artists, and background material to the whole operation. Sixteen hours of material was obtained and edited into the hour-and-a-half presentation "The Golden Ring."

First aired by the British Broadcasting Corporation, who co-produced it with the Austrian Television Service, "The Golden Ring" was widely praised in the British press.

Variety called it "an enthralling revelation of the exact detail required to present Wagner's intentions."

Loving Tribute?

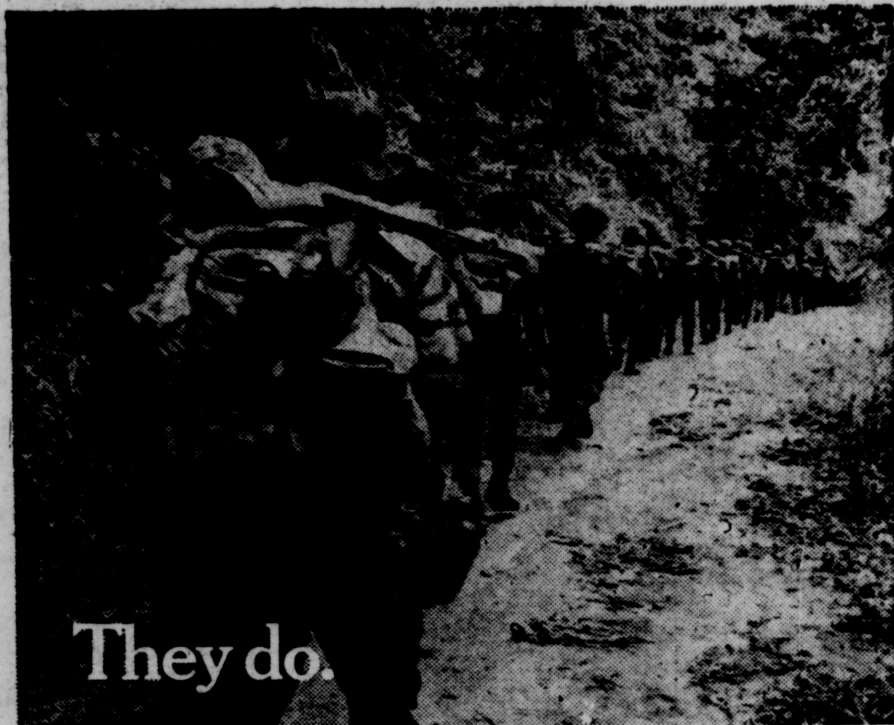

Since the recent CBS-TV special called The Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Carl Reiner, Howard Morris Show was obviously a loving tribute to their old Your Show of Shows, some people wondered why they just didn't call it that. Seems Max Leibman, who produced the old series, would not allow Jack Arnold, who produced the special, to use the old title.

Buy Bonds where you work.

They do.

Sometimes it seems the job is 50% walking, 50% waiting, and 50% fighting. It's tough, tiring work. But these brave men believe in it. A majority of our servicemen overseas are helping to pay the bill for freedom through regular purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds. Would you like to show these men their sacrifice is appreciated? You do it—and you walk a bit taller—when you buy Bonds where you bank or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

U.S. Savings Bonds

Bond facts: Savings Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 at maturity in only seven years . . . are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen . . . have special tax advantages . . . can be redeemed whenever the need arises.

'67' Interesting Show But Not All Barrel of Laughs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The first gag in Thursday night's "A Time for Laughter" on ABC had Negro comedienne Moms Mabley turning to a mirror on the wall and asking "Who's the fairest of them all?"

Back from the mirror came the answer, from Negro comedian Redd Foxx: "Snow White, and don't you forget it."

Not All on Humor

About an hour later, Dick Gregory, in a set simulating a crowded jail full of civil rights cell mates: "The next time you demonstrate, if one of those dogs bites you, bite him back. We'll come to jail with their raties. And they'll go home barking 'We shall overcome'."

If the ABC "Stage 67" program with its star-studded cast of Negroes purportedly tracing Negro humor of the past 100 years is accurate. Negro humor seems to be bitter, sharp and stinging.

The whole period was not, of course, completely devoted to humor growing from the civil rights movement. Pigmeat Markham played a judge in a long vaudeville sketch with Harry Belafonte and Diahann Carroll as a battling husband wife.

It was an interesting program, but not exactly a barrel of laughs.

Subs Do Well

Supervisory personnel of the three networks Thursday turned in excellent jobs as they handled the mechanics of television broadcasting now further crippled by walkouts by members of technical unions in sympathy with the 10-day-old performers union strike.

Occasionally sound disappeared or a cut from one segment of a news show to another was ragged. On the whole, however, things went surprisingly smoothly.

The continuing strike, however, is raising a hob with some Taping for "Carousel," a two-hour adaptation of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical for broadcast next month has been postponed, although rehearsals have been completed.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Saturday — "A Yankee sails across Europe," CBS, 8:30-9:30 p.m., EST a National Geographic special: "Damn Yankees," NBC, 9-11, adaptation of the hit musical comedy, with Phil Silvers, Lee Remick and Jim Backus.

Myrna Loy Fools You

Leslie Stevens wrote a recent episode of The Virginian for which he wanted "an overpowering actress" to play the lead. He was told Myrna Loy had been cast in the role and he admitted misgivings because she has always been a "tiny actress" to him. But then he saw the first day's work and changed his mind. "She fools you 80 different ways," he said. "She's as big as you want her to be. And it was wonderful to see what her work did for Charles Bickford. They were two mature people playing off each other."

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED WANT AD . . .

1. IT'S always best to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location and/or town or city in which it is located.
2. BE clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably.
3. MAKE it easy for the reader-prospect to reach you, when given complete or definite information. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. THE greatest reader attention can be secured by your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Play safe—a six-day order is best and the rate is lower! You can stop your ad when you get results and the charge will be adjusted to the appropriate rate.
5. PLACE yourself in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Want Ad.
6. WANT ads that fail to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

TV Questions And Answers

CHANNING? — Didn't Carol Channing have her own series a few years back? — K. L., Abilene, Texas.

Carol has never had a series on television. Perhaps you are thinking of an old series titled "Channing" which starred Henry Jones.

NOT KNOTTS — I think there is a good resemblance between Carol Burnett and Don Knotts. Is he related to her in any way? — K. L., Miami, Fla.

No, he is Knott.

LEMMON LOVER — I have a magazine before me that states Felicia Sanders is married to her accompanist. I also remember your paper stating that she is married to Jack Lemmon. What gives? — T. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

I think you've flipped your Felicias. It's Felicia Farr, not Sanders, who calls Lemmon "lover."

GENERAL GRANT — My sister thinks Cary Grant is in line for a TV series. I think she is kidding me. What do you think? — K. D., West Palm Beach, Fla.

I think you're kidding each other. If Grant should decide to do a series he could command a contract that would put Ed Sullivan, The Beatles and Cassius Clay, combined, to shame. Or has that been done already?

DAKTARI PAST — Was Daktari originally conceived as a result of the success of the book Born Free? — K. T., Miami, Fla.

There is a minor similarity between that best-seller and Daktari but no real connection. The series was created by producer Ivan Tors after considerable audience acceptance of a feature film he produced titled Clarence, the Cross-Eyed Lion.

B FOR BEVERLY — We remember Bea Benaderet, of Petticoat Junction from the time she was with Burns and Allen. But we don't remember her from The Beverly Hillbillies which our friends say she was on. Was she, and who was she? — K. R., Miami, Fla.

Do you remember Cousin Pearl who always had such a yen for Jethro and hoped to make him her umpteenth husband? If you do, you remember Bea Benaderet on that show.

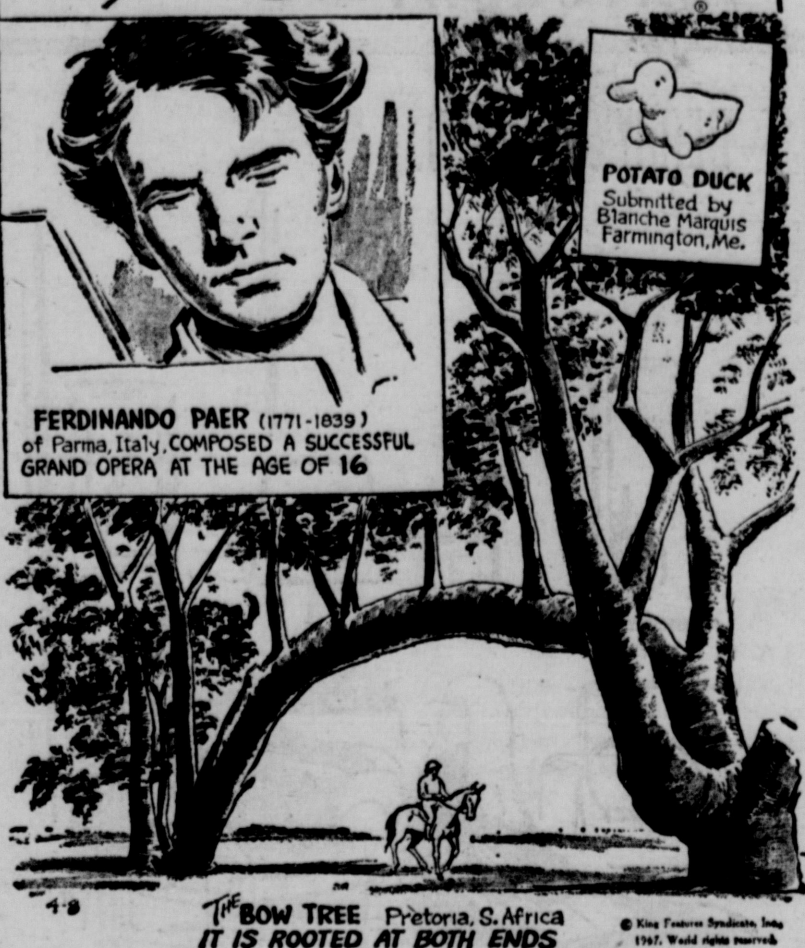

BROOKLYN BORN — A friend who recently moved here from California, says that she went to school with Mary Tyler Moore. Far be it from me to call her a liar, but before I do, didn't she go to school in Brooklyn where she was born and raised, as I have often read in magazines? — P. F., Deluth.

Mary was born in Brooklyn but was not raised there. Her family moved to Los Angeles when she was eight years old. If your friend says she attended the Immaculate Heart High School, she probably did go to school with Mary.

JACK'S JACK — I have read that Jack Benny plays a violin worth $25,000 when he is on television. My friends think that is ridiculous. Will you confirm it for them? — L. L., Fort Worth, Texas.

Can't do. Not true. At least not all of it. Jack does own a $25,000 (or more) Stradivarius which he plays at concerts. But he would never consider using it during the hectic hours of preparing and producing a television program.

Predict Record Year For Lawrence Seaway

MONTREAL (AP)—The eastern section of the St. Lawrence Seaway is open for the 1967 shipping season in what officials predict will be a record year.

Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, and Joseph H. McCann, his U.S. counterpart, were on hand in a snow squall Friday at the suburban St. Lambert locks to watch the first vessels enter the system this year.

The opening was seven days behind last year's but eight days ahead of the predicted opening date for this year. A quick thaw during the last two weeks allowed the early opening.

The western section, centered on the Welland Canal, opened April 1.

The unbound British freighter Carrigan Head was the first of 12 ships to enter the locks. In Montreal harbor, just across the St. Lawrence River, 20 more ships were waiting to make the trip to Great Lakes ports.

Officials at the opening said they expected shipping this year would surpass the record of 59 million tons that moved through the locks in 1966.

TV Manager Dies

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—William A. Ripley, a former general manager of Television Station WAST, died Friday night at the Albany Medical Center Hospital, where he had undergone heart surgery.

Ripley, 68, was general manager of the station here from the time it received a Federal Communications Commission license in 1956 to Jan. 1, 1967, when he retired. He previously had been general manager of Radio Station WTRY in Troy.

He leaves a widow and a daughter at his Troy home.

TV Scout Reports

A regular star on a popular TV series came to New York for some show publicity. During the course of his visit, he paid an 80-cent-plus-tip taxi fare back to his hotel, when a network press agent forgot to shell out. Only the actor didn't forget about it. He got back to Hollywood and wrote a note to the network president, telling him how "unseemingly" it was for him to have to deal with such mundane matters.

Joe Bigelow, head writer for The Hollywood Palace, explains why performers always feel comfortable as the host. "We try to capture their image," he told TV SCOUT. "We find out their character and write things they would say. You can't force an attitude on them. The pace of the show is the pace of the host."

Suzy Parker was asked for a photograph of herself in connection with her recent appearance on Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theater. Suzy, one of country's top models, had a lot of trouble convincing people she didn't have any. But she doesn't. Even her husband, Brad Dillman, doesn't have one to carry in his wallet.

ABE TWAIN—Didn't Hal Holbrook do another famous-man impersonation? — D. G., St. Paul, Minn.

Hal has done many but perhaps his most famous other than Twain is a take-off on Abraham Lincoln.

FOREVER FRED — Actors come and actors go but Fred MacMurray seems always to have been. How old is he and how long has he been acting? — T. F., St. Paul, Wisc.

MacMurray is a remarkably well-kept 59 years old. He began his show business career as a musician in his teens, turning to acting some ten years later. He took his first screen test at age 25 and at age 26 was a star.

Bernie Kopell, who plays Sigfried, Maxwell Smart's Nazi nemesis on Get Smart, may have acted himself right out of a job. It seems Bernie strikes Don Adams so funny that, according to producer Leonard Stern, "we have endless outtakes of bursts of laughter. Don can't control himself. It becomes infectious and then Bernie loses control." Because outtakes are expensive, Bernie's appearances are being limited, Stern adds with a laugh.

A recent episode of Mission: Impossible dealt with the agents beating two casino games. The show was written by head writers William Reed Woodfield and Allan Balter. At one time Woodfield was a master magician and a card expert. He has written a book about magic, and also proved you can win at blackjack without the aid of a computer.

Rose Marie Has Bad Fall

HOLLYWOOD—A not so funny thing happened to Rose Marie the other day and she was on her way to see her doctor again. Just looking at her shoulder she said, "Ouch!"

"It's so black and blue it looks like I played three quarters as a linebacker with the Rams."

A karate chop she had taken at Mike Constantine for a scene in Hey Landlord had backfired. She lost her balance and fell, heavily, on her right shoulder.

Now, two weeks later, she was still undergoing medical treatment.

"But you know me, 'I'm Charlie Show Business,'" she grinned. "After we completed the show (which is filmed before an audience) and started to pick up shots we still needed, I'm ready to do the thing again. But when I offered the director said, 'Are you kidding? We're lucky you didn't break your neck!'"

How the fall looks on the screen she doesn't know, and won't until the episode is played on the April 23 stanza of NBC-TV's Hey Landlord titled "Aunt Harriet Wants You."

Since the end of the Dick Van Dyke series, Rose Marie and Morey Amsterdam have become fixed panelists on NBC's daily game show The Hollywood Squares.

"We're like book ends—we're a set," she laughs about Morey. "We've been friends for a thousand years."

She's also guested on other TV shows (The Monkees and Occasional Wife) appeared in a movie, "Dead Heat on a Merry-Go-Round," starred in stage productions of "Call Me Madame" and "Bye Bye Birdie," and played the mother of Tarzan, in a zebra skin muu muu, in a pilot reel of a still unsold satirical series titled Walter of the Jungle.

If the show sells, Rose Marie thinks maybe it would have a chance to win an audience "because it's so far out."

"I'm playing Tarzan's mother like a good Jewish mother," she reported. "We're sitting in the tree house and Tarzan is talking about how he's going to outwit the natives to find the stolen idol and I say to him, 'Relax son, eat your soup, eat your soup.'"

But if Walter of the Jungle never reaches any screen, the pilot left Rose Marie with what she called "the funniest line I ever heard in show business."

The director was Herman Abott and one scene, involving an elephant and a giraffe, was spoiled time after time by the elephant's unexpected movements.

Finally Norman decided to shoot the scene without the elephant and in absent-minded haste he announced:

"Somebody tell the elephant he's not in the scene."

Rose Marie—Charlie Show Business—laughed all the way to her doctor's office.

Budget Goes Up

The things that send up the budget in a TV production: A recent Virginian cast Warren Stevens as a bad guy. In one scene he is holding up a bank. He's shot during his getaway, but, according to the script, while holding his side and satchel containing the loot, he is to exit the bank, mount The Virginian's horse and ride away. Well, it seems the horse, obviously a series regular, had a fear of two things—bags and umbrellas. After nine takes, with the horse bolting every time, had had to finish the scene with "jump takes." That's why viewers saw a shot of Stevens leaving the bank, then a crowd shot, then Stevens on the horse with the bag in hand. It was handed to him after he was mounted, and from behind so the horse couldn't see.

MacRae Sings Without Singing

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK—Meredith MacRae recently signed a recording contract with the proviso that she sings without really singing.

"You have to be very bland today to be popular," the lovely blonde star of CBS-TV's Petticoat Junction said over a lunch of tomato juice and cottage cheese.

"Take Nancy Sinatra, for instance. She practically sings in a monotone but she comes over great and the kids really love her. Even her Dad is doing the same thing. Look at the success of 'Stupid.'"

Singing blandly is not really the forte of Meredith who has inherited much of the vocal skills of her famous Mom and Dad, Sheila and Gordon MacRae.

"I guess I can do about anything in singing from crooning a lullaby to belting the rafters. And I suppose it's the belting I love the most."

"Some of the greatest kicks I've had in show business have been in musical comedies. I've done 'Annie Get Your Gun,' 'Bye Bye Birdie' and 'Wildcat' and I think I can belt with the best of them."

"But the bland blend is the in-thing, and if you want to sell records, you've got to give them what they want."

Meredith wants very much to sell records. Not so much for the money in it, as for the potential it provides.

"I want to do everything," she said. "I go to school about 25 hours every week, no matter what, studying acting, singing, dancing and even writing."

"Right now there is a possibility I might do a movie which I'd just adore. I've done three so far and each one has been a little bigger than the last and a little more exciting."

The only problem her active career has given her is in not having enough time to do all the things she wants to do.

"My husband, who is a CPA and used to a more conventional kind of living, takes it all philosophically."

"He thinks it's funny that someone with as hectic a life as I have to produce a bland sound to sell a song."

Shock by Winters

When Jonathan Winters appeared as one of 15 comics on a Bob Hope Chrysler Special, he gave nearly everyone connected with the show a heart attack just before final taping. He announced he wasn't pleased with his role, and he wanted to play a different character.

"Who?" he was asked.

"Bob Hope," he Winters-ized.

Will Explore Bottom of Sea

The most accurate record of the major events in the life of the planet Earth lies at the bottom of the sea.

"Spectrum," National Educational Television's weekly science series, lays open this treasure trove of geological data when it presents "History—Layer by Layer" on Channel 17, Tuesday, April 11 at 10:30 p. m. The program will be repeated Saturday, April 15 at 6:00 p. m.

Organic remains found in deep-sea sediments provide the scientist with the best clues to the Earth's history and evolution. By means of shells of organisms many thousands of years old researchers are able to calculate climatic variations in ages past.

Comparing accumulations in different parts of the oceans, the scientist tries to deduce a layer-by-layer history of the Earth. Geology, seismology, biology, chemistry and physics are all interrelated in the attempt to deepen man's understanding of the planet on which he lives.

In the evaluation and interpretation of sediment data, geographical setting and ocean topography must be carefully studied, for scientists have found that the bottom of the sea is not static, as they once thought, but is repeatedly disrupted by under-sea landslides and avalanches.

The film takes the viewer to the equatorial Atlantic aboard the Lamont Geological Observatory's research ship VEMA which gathers the deep-sea sediments. Each day the ship's corer is lowered as much as 2,700 fathoms to the bottom of the sea where its 1,500 pound head punches a hole in the ocean floor to obtain sediment samples.

The core library at Lamont has grown to over 4,000 cores from all parts of the world's oceans. There, a series of painstaking procedures is followed to determine the age of the samples.

From the data yielded by the cores, scientists can determine the advances and recessions of the glaciers during the Ice Age.

A Parker Line

Great line from Fess Parker about the situation in Vietnam. "It has become so complex," he said, "that even taxi drivers don't have a solution."

From these layers of sediment researchers have found a new method of learning about glacial epochs and of estimating the time intervals at which they occurred.

In fact, through the use of the cores, scientists have traced sediments back to the very dawn of the Ice Ages. The evidence indicates that the Ice Ages began much earlier than had previously been thought—at least one and one-half million years ago.

The sampling and interpretation of the complete sedimentary record available on the ocean floor is one of the most promising projects for scientific study. Here, available to the biologist, geologist, geophysicist and astronomer is a record of the evolution of life itself.

Big Valley Guest

Lee Grant was the guest on The Big Valley directed by Joe Mazzuca, who is a graduate of the University of Southern California cinema school. He decided not to fool around with Lee, and immediately told her it was his first directorial assignment. She set him at ease right away, saying "I usually do my best jobs with new directors." Lee is one of the actresses who likes to apply her own make-up, something members of the make-up union don't appreciate. On one show she was made to feel very uncomfortable about applying her make-up, even though a make-up man was being paid for working. She tried to explain how she felt, but nothing worked. Finally, she "confessed" to the director, "I can't stand being touched." "That worked," Lee laughed. "The fact that I liked to apply my own make-up, they couldn't accept. But a psychosis they understood."

Future in TV Unsure Thing For Conrad

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—"Whatever you are paid in television isn't enough," Bob Conrad said.

He was referring to television's unprincipledness and its emotional strains. On Friday he had walked from the sound stage where The Wild Wild West is filmed to the adjoining Gunsmoke stage.

Matt Dillon and Kitty and Doc were having a wake.

Matt handed Bob a glass. "Here!" he said, "drink a toast to our demise."

It was a teary affair. Gunsmoke, after 12 years, had been cancelled. Without notice to the cast or even a hint.

The next day trucks came and carted off all of Matt and Kitty and Doc's personal belongings. Studio workmen started to demolish the Gunsmoke set.

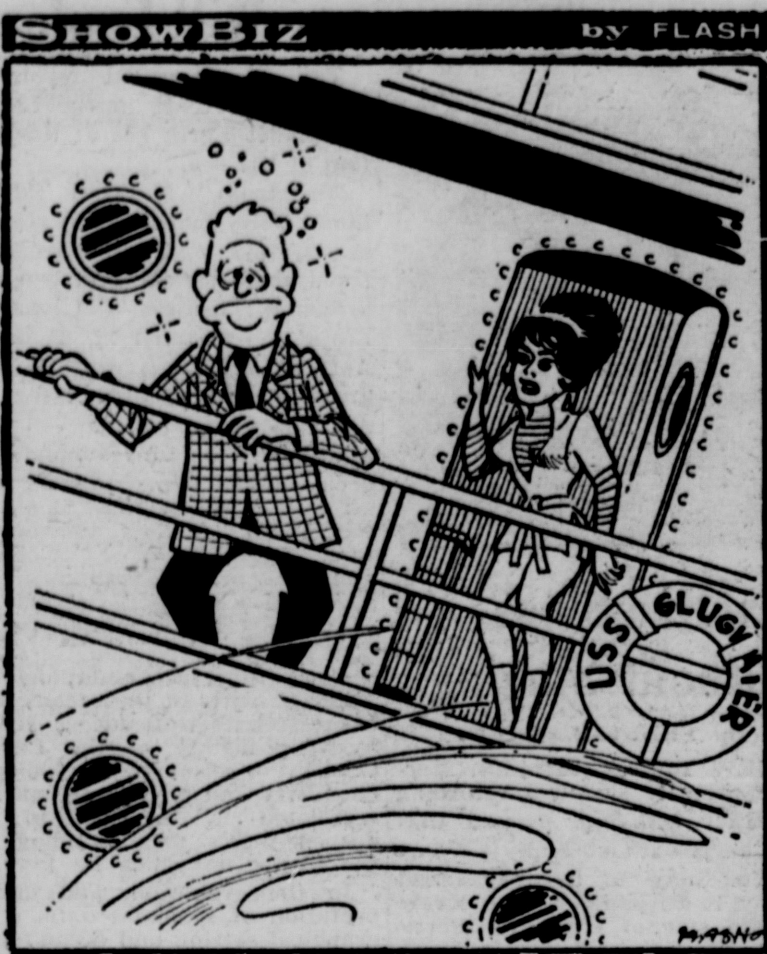

But now, as Bob Conrad made his statement, it was Tuesday. He had just heard the news—CBS had reversed itself and re-vitalized the series for another season.

"It's crazy," Bob said. "You can't count on anything."

There was no shadow of a cancellation hanging over The Wild Wild West in which Conrad stars as the heroic James T. West. The show had just been renewed by CBS-TV for its third season.

But like West, Conrad plays life cool and prepared for the worst. He said, "I look forward to every season as a closer. I don't commit myself to buy anything until I see the renewal. I'll never come up short. I don't buy yachts out of future earnings. The future is something you can't count on in television."

Even a show going into its third season, like Bob's, is not without emotional strain. "In our first year," he said, "we had a lot of different producers (a record six) and big ratings. The next season we had one producer and so-so ratings."

"If you don't like 'The Dating Game,' Dear, say so!
I'll change the channel!"

What will happen next season? Don't ask me."

Over a luncheon table Bob Conrad made a confession.

"Eventually I hope to be a producer. I don't have an actor's drive. I don't want to be on all the time. I'd like to be on in an office as a producer, surrounded by smart, young, creative people."

As a producer, director, writer and star, Conrad just completed a big screen movie, "Los Bandidos," an action melodrama of Texas in 1850. He made the picture outside Mexico City with the same technical crew, including cameraman Ted Voightlander, which works with him on his TV series.

Co-starred with him are Roy

Jensen, a former Hollywood stuntman, and Michael Vincent, a young lad he discovered behind the counter when he went into a shop to buy a surfboard.

"I've been offered movies about which producers enthused, 'You'll love this. There's only one lead — YOU.' Well, I think I'd be a fool to try and carry the whole picture. I'm not a big star. No one is a big star these days. Clark Gable is dead."

Washington has an annual snowfall ranging from five inches along its coast to 600 inches on the southern slopes of Mt. Rainier.

TV SCOUT REPORTS

A new character will be introduced to Get Smart audiences in the April 1 (EDITORS: NOTE DATE) show. The character is called "Charlie Watkins" and is described as "a master of disguises who specializes in looking like a beautiful girl." Charlie is played by a girl, Angelique Pettijohn, formerly an exotic dancer. Originally, the role was only a bit. But on the set the character struck people funny, so some rewriting was done. Now Angelique has a good part, but her dialogue is dubbed by a man with a deep speaking voice. Chances are the character will appear several times next season.

An actor on Get Smart is called Jefferson County. Really, (Someone wondered if his last name was Missouri).

Actress Lorri Scott wonders where all those roles are that call for girls to kiss their leading men. For a film called Doomsday '75 she suffered a rib separation fighting with Grant Williams. For a segment of Wild West West, she brushed her hip scuffling with Robert Conrad.

TV is like this: On May 4 Ingrid Berman in Cocteau's "The Human Voice" will be on ABC Stage '67. The same night CBS-TV will telecast the long-awaited production of Arthur's Miller's Crucible. They are opposite each other. They are both David Susskind productions.

The production staff at The Danny Kaye Show is not without a sense of humor. When the script for the very last show came out of the mimeograph room, every last page was bordered in black.

Danny Thomas, who recently invested a bundle in a pro football team (the Miami Dolphins), is now explaining his reason for doing a regular TV show again.

"I just saw the team in Miami," he says. "I'm gonna need the money!"

Obviously TV fans don't make allowances for a script writer's version of poetic license. In an episode of That Girl, there was a knock on the door and Marlo Thomas called "Come In."

A bundle of mail descended on poor Marlo's pretty head from people chiding her for not having her door locked in a New York apartment.

Leigh Taylor-Young, who recently married her Peyton Place costar, Ryan O'Neal, says she was attracted to him by his broad sense of humor. "When I started work in the show I was very serious," she says. "Until I was introduced to Ryan, I didn't know you could laugh between takes."

Hits Marine Column

EAGLESHAM, Scotland (AP) — A motorist ran into a column of 14 Royal Marines marching along a country lane Thursday night, killing one and seriously injuring six others.

The car was badly damaged but its driver was not hurt.
